Sandusky Blaze Loss Hits $2,000,000 Powers Promise

TWO BUSINESS BLOCKS RAZED BY HUGE FIRE

20 FAMILIES ESCAPE

Stiff Breeze, Explosions of Oil and Paint Spread Blaze to Other Structures.

(By Associated Press)
SANDUSKY—Fire which virtually razed an entire business block in downtown Sandusky at an estimated loss in excess of $2,000,000 was brought under control at 8 a. m. today.

Most of the buildings were burned to the ground. Only parts of crumbling walls remained, and firemen immediately prepared to pull these down to remove the danger of falling walls.

Fire Chief Wilson McLaughlin said damage would exceed $2,000,000.

Other Cities Respond

Firemen from nearby Norwalk, Bellevue, Fremont and Huron joined Sandusky firemen and poured tons of water into the blazing buildings. The flames were not subdued, however, until most of the buildings had collapsed.

McLaughlin said that in addition to destruction of buildings in two blocks, plate glass windows in seven stores in a third block were shattered by heat, and window stocks ruined by water.

Thousands of spectators watched the blaze, largest in the city's history, but none was injured. Police attributed this to the fact that heat prevented them from getting close to crumbling buildings.

Walls Collapse

Walls of the brick and stone structures crumbled and fell as the fire raged before a brisk breeze; but fire-fighters, policemen and onlookers almost miraculously escaped injury.

Explosions punctuated the roar of flames and falling debris as the

FUNDS SEIZED

U. S. Holds Nazi Reichsbank Deposit in Tax Squabble.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States treasury has seized a part of the funds of the German reichsbank which are on deposit in this country, it was learned today.

The funds have been held for the German bank by the Federal Reserve Bank in New York City. The treasury said the action was taken as the result of an income tax controversy involving $144,454.

The internal revenue bureau contends the German bank, which is the official bank of the third reich, owes this amount in taxes and accrued interest as a result of profits made in this country between 1924 and 1927.

PRICE OF MILK DROPS ONE CENT

Quarts to Sell for 10 Cents Starting Tomorrow; Cream Rates Also Reduced.

The retail price of milk will drop from 11 to 10 cents per quart in Richland county Saturday.

Announced by the Richland County Milk Producers' association, the price cut will affect all retailers and is in line with the downward trend throughout the state, Dale M. Dohner, manager of the association, asserted.

The price of pints will be unchanged at six cents, but coffee cream will be reduced from 11 to 10 cents and whipping cream from 22 to 20 cents per half pint.

The price cut is the result of an agreement reached by county producers and retailers following a campaign by the county producers association for a uniform retail price.

"Price here are now in line with those throughout the state, and as a result of the reduction we feel that the value the consumer will receive is on a par with any in the state," Dohner said.

SAFEST CITIES

New Jersey, Providence Win Awards from National Council.

CHICAGO, April—New Jersey and Providence, R. I., held the National Safety Council's grand awards today as the state and city which attained the greatest improvement during the past year in campaigns for traffic safety.

The winners were chosen note alone on their death rates but also for the accomplishments of their safety activity programs.

Children Find Mother's Body Hanging In Loudonville Barn

LOUDONVILLE—Four children of Mrs. Mabel Wachtel, 49, found her body hanging from a rafter of the barn yesterday when they went to inquire why their school lunches were not packed.

John Wachtel, husband of the woman, said he had eaten breakfast with her about 6:30 and that she had seemed in good spirits when he left for work. An hour and a half later, when the children got up, they said they became alarmed when they couldn't find their mother in the house.

One of them peeked for the barn and the others followed. They discovered the body hanging in the building. Dr. George Emery, Ashland county coroner, was called, and gave a verdict of suicide.

Wachtel had been in ill health for more than a year and this was believed to have led to her death. The family resides in Green township, three and a half miles northeast of here.

She was the daughter of William and Myra Appleman and was born in Holmes county, Nov. 22, 1889. For a number of years she taught school in that county.

Surviving are her husband and nine children, Mrs. Helen Taylor, Loudonville; Mrs. Kenneth Phillips, Loudonville; Mary, Mabel, Reno and Walter, all at home; Earl, of Mansfield; Harold, Wooster; and John, of Big Prairie.

Three sisters, Miss Pearl Appleman and Mrs. Mary Budd of Shreve and Mrs. Myrtle Kaser of Holmesville and two brothers, Carl Appleman of Shreve and Walter of Wooster, also survive.

Mrs. Wachtel was a member of the Shreve Presbyterian church. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Swank funeral home with Rev. J. H. Kullman, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be in the Newkirk cemetery north of here.

Body of Girl, 21, Still Held In South Pending Sister's Condition.

6 Cars, Truck Taken From Flood Waters Beneath Broken Bridge.

The death toll in Mississippi's worst highway disaster which brought death to one Mansfield woman and injuries to her sister, continued to mount today with 12 bodies taken from the raging flood waters of Clear Creek bayou while others were sought at the bottom of the 20-foot stream.

Efforts to learn the extent of injuries to Miss Gladys Schrack, 19, of Mansfield, who was among those rescued, had not been successful up to noon today. Arrangements for returning the body of her sister, Mrs. Mary Murray, 21, were held up until it could be learned whether Miss Schrack is in condition to travel home with the body.

Plunge In Darkness

The car in which the two women were riding was one of a number that plunged into the bayou in the darkness Wednesday night when flood waters undermined a big concrete span and toppled it into the water 70 feet below.

Six autos and a truck have already been taken from the water and divers say that at least two more were pinned beneath the broken concrete span at the bottom, and contained anywhere from four to six more bodies.

A couple containing five bodies was found far down stream yesterday afternoon. They were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Schilling, Mrs. Sam H. Campbell, her three-year-old daughter, Annette, and Mrs. Tom Bradley, all of Oak Grove, La.

70 Others Miss Death

Meanwhile state highway officers disclosed that 70 persons had missed death by a matter of minutes. A Greyhound bus carrying 31 passengers had passed over the bridge a few minutes before the 45-foot concrete span broke, while

FACING TRIAL

Spanish Leader to Appear Before Franco's Court.

MADRID—(AP)—Spanish Nationalist authorities today ordered Julian Besteiro, republican leader who remained here to hand over the city to them, tried Sunday by summary court martial.

Clamping down a stern martial law regime, the military authorities announced coincidentally an intensive drive against "Red" (republican) leaders, of whom, they asserted, many remained in the city.

At 8 p. m. curfew was imposed and authorities announced that only authorized army men, Spanish Falangist (Fascist) guards and working bakers would be permitted to circulate during the curfew hours.

Dispatches from Valencia said members of the republican defense council, who fled to the coast when Besteiro volunteered to remain here, were among those evacuated by British warships from Gandia.

First Quarter Building Triples Figure for 1938

Projects Total $698,000 for Past 3 Months; 46 New Homes Started as Compared With 12 Last Year.

Soaring building valuations in Mansfield during the first quarter of 1939 totaling more than two-thirds of a million dollars showed an increase of 200 per cent over valuations for the corresponding period last year, a survey of building permit records revealed today.

The total cost of all building projects for the three-month period of $228,796 recorded during the first quarter of 1938.

Residential construction totaling $195,300 for the first three months of this year more than doubled the valuation of $84,500 set in the first quarter last year.

Average Cost Drops. So far this year 46 new homes have been started in Mansfield as compared with 12 built during the same period in 1938. However, the average cost per home dropped from $7,400 in 1938 to approximately $4,300 this year.

March building this year was listed at $107,315, as compared with $162,936, approximately $55,000 under the valuations of March, 1938, when a permit was issued for a $100,000 theater.

During the past month, however, 23 permits were issued for the construction of new homes, nearly three times the number issued in March last year.

SEEK TO CUT WPA FUND TO 55 MILLIONS

Already Slashed One Third, $150,000,000 Request to Face Further Paring.

CUT IN ROLLS DELAYED

Harrington Expedited to Modify Order to Discharge 400,000 From Work Lists.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Bi-partisan opponents of President Roosevelt's $150,000,000 WPA request, not content with their effort to cut it a third, sought in the house today to slash it to $55,000,000.

Rep. Mapes (R-Mich.) declared the smaller figure would have the support of 90 per cent of the Republican members.

Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.) predicted, however, that a compromise figure of $100,000,000 would be approved. That was the sum agreed upon by the administration leadership under pressure of economy advocates, and recommended by the appropriations committee.

Asks Lay-Off Delay

Meanwhile, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) suggested that congress direct the WPA not to lay off any relief workers until the pending appropriation is disposed of.

A cut of 400,000 has been ordered for next week, but it was understood that Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, might delay this for a day or so and when it became apparent what the administration would do.

Leaders said the senate could take up the appropriation bill early next week. Senator Byrnes (D-SC) said he believed some of the senators who voted for Mr. Roosevelt's original request of $875,000,000, which congress trimmed by $150,000,000—now would accept $100,000,000 additional provided that was the sum the house put through.

Would Abolish WPA.

Senator King (D-Utah) introduced yesterday a bill to abolish the WPA and the National Youth Administration and provide instead for the president to make relief allocations direct to the states "on the basis of need."

House sponsors of the movement for a $55,000,000 appropriation said it grew out of a report by the appropriations committee that if the WPA got an additional $100,000,000, it still would have $45,706,455 more than was absorbed.

CAMP TO STAY AT LOUDONVILLE

CCC Authorizes Mohican Operation Until September 30.

The Civilian Conservation Corps at Mohican State park, near Loudonville, will be maintained at least until Sept. 30, according to the CCC program for Ohio announced today by Robert Fechner, director of the corps.

Thirty camps with an enrollment of 6,000 will be maintained in Ohio during a period from April 1 to Oct. 1, including one at Wooster which will be re-established. Six of the present camps in the state have been ordered discontinued, with four new ones set up.

Last year it was announced that the Mohican camp would be moved to another part of the state, but protests from thousands of citizens brought a promise that it would remain for the time being.

Chamberlain, Announcing Stand Jointly For British And French, Says Poles Assured of Definite Aid In Event Of Independence Threats.

BULLETIN

BERLIN—(AP)—Adolf Hitler will have "plenty to say" at Wilhelmshaven tomorrow in reply to Prime Minister Chamberlain's promise to fight for Polish independence against aggression, responsible Nazi sources asserted today.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Prime Minister Chamberlain in a historic attempt to block Germany's expansion on the continent announced in the house of commons today that Britain and France would back with arms the independence of Poland while pursuing means of stabilizing the European situation.

Without mentioning Germany, the prime minister stated Britain's position thus:

"In the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered it vital to resist with their national forces, His Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend the Polish government all support in their power."

"They have given the Polish government an assurance to this effect."

"I may add that the French government have authorized me to make it plain that they stand in the same position in this matter as do His Majesty's government."

The statement went beyond anything most European observers anticipated.

The prime minister had been expected to qualify his guarantee by refusing to fight for Danzig or the Polish Corridor.

SOUGHT IN FIRE

Morrow Woman Believed Dead in Blazing Home.

MT. GILEAD—Mrs. Lottie Underhill, 65, is believed to have perished today in a fire which destroyed the farm home where she lived alone near Cardington.

Although heat from the embers of the home prevented authorities from searching for the body, Sheriff Oscar George of Morrow county said he was positive the aged woman perished in the flames.

Neighbors who battled the blaze about 6:30 a. m. said they did not see Mrs. Underhill leave the home. They were unable to get into the kitchen of the burning home where Sheriff George said the fire probably started from the explosion of an oil stove.

Neighbors who entered the flaming home by breaking windows, reported that Mrs. Underhill had left her bed and probably was overcome by the smoke in the kitchen.

Former Mansfield Woman In $25,000 Alienation Suit

An alienation of affection suit for $25,000 was filed in the Ashland county courts this morning which involves a former Mansfield woman.

Mrs. Marie L. Wooster, Columbus, who resided here until a few years ago filed the suit against Mrs. Opal Grace Dineen, Ashland, and a second action against Ruth M. Shuey, wife of Walter Shuey, manager of the Ashland airport.

In her petition Mrs. Wooster asserts that she married Norman E. Wooster April 20, 1914 and had lived happily with him until Nov. 2, 1938 when he abandoned her. She charges that Mrs. Dineen "wrongfully, unlawfully and maliciously" alienated the affections of her husband, claiming that by "reason of money expended for and entertainment provided for the said Norman Wooster," the latter became so disaffected that he abandoned his wife and child on Nov. 2, 1938.

A second cause in the petition is against Mrs. Shuey, charging that Mrs. Dineen in an "attempt to cheat and defraud the plaintiff" has attempted to place title to real estate in Ashland county in the hands of Mrs. Shuey.

Mrs. Dineen, whose home is in Ashland but whose present whereabouts is unknown, is the widow of Edward Dineen who committed suicide two months ago.

State Issues Second Order For Bowman Crossing Signals

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad, for the second time within the past year was ordered by the state utilities commission to install state flasher signal lights at the unprotected Bowman street grade crossing.

Press dispatches from Columbus today said that the commission had ordered the railroad to "install and operate" within 60 days, standard automatic flashing signals at the crossing.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, who has led the fight for the signals since a fatal accident in January, 1938, notified of the commission's action by The News-Journal today said:

"That certainly is music to my ears."

400 PRESENT AS GALION SCOUTS AND DADS DINE

Cincinnati Speaker Delivers Address at Scout-Cub-Parent Banquet.

GALION—Some 400 were present for the first annual Scout-Cub-Parent banquet, the first of its kind in the history of Galion scouting, which was held Thursday night at the Junior high school gymnasium.

With the meal prepared by the Galion Elks under the direction of H. W. Bradley, the dinner program began at 6:30 p. m., with Supt. O. E. Hill of the Galion schools as toastmaster. Hiss is the Galion district committee chairman. Invocation was said by Rev. W. N. Robertson of the First Methodist church who is active in Boy Scout work here. The group singing was led by W. F. Von-Brock.

The highlight of the affair was the guest speaker, Perle L. Whitehead of Cincinnati, deputy regional scout executive. His rapid fire style of speaking and the humor with which he interspersed his remarks, made him a favorite speaker here.

Gets Veterans' Badge.

There were remarks by a number of scout officials and several awards were made for outstanding work and training. C. L. Ailes of Galion was presented with his 20-year veteran's badge for scout work which had been awarded to him at a recent district meeting in Mansfield. J. C. Gay, Galion district commissioner who had charge of the banquet and other arrangements, introduced all of the scoutmasters and assistants. Scoutmasters who completed a training course last year were presented with awards. Those receiving these diplomas were H. H. Harrington, Howard Whiteley, C. B. Woodburn, John Cowl, Kenneth Sherer and Oliver Godfrey. The speaker presented awards to S. D. VanMeter and Richard Patterson for completing the cub training course.

Patterson spoke briefly and introduced the cubmasters. It was noted by the toastmaster that Boy Scout work in Galion has now advanced to include 30 leaders, 136 Boy Scouts, 43 cubs and 16 cub leaders. Last year there were only two troops and now there are five, while there are now two cub packs to none last year.

During the evening's program the following honored guests were present, several of them speaking briefly: Mayor W. M. King of Galion; Floyd Dent of Mansfield, scout executive of Johnny Appleseed area; C. I. Kimmel of Mansfield, area commissioner; L. A. Ott, also of Mansfield, area president; W. S. Vainore, Mansfield, area treasurer; D. D. Montoya of Ashland, assistant scout executive; Phil Smith, Mansfield District Commissioner.

The closing ceremony was conducted by Scoutmaster William Gladhill of troop 3. During the dinner special music was provided by the senior high school brass sextette under the direction of W. F. VonBrock.

GALION CHIEF ON 30TH YEAR

Cook, Police Head, Ends 29 Years of Service With Law Enforcement Department.

GALION—Having rounded out 29 years of service as a member on the Galion police force, Chief of Police Frank Cook will start his 30th year on Saturday, April 1.

Chief Cook, in his work, has followed in the steps of his father, the late Frank Cook who for a number of years was "marshal" of Galion.

When he first became a regular patrolman, it was to work on the night shift when the late C. D. Riblet was night captain. Later when Riblet was promoted to the position of chief, Cook became a night captain. Following the death of the late Chief Riblet, Cook became chief of the department on Feb. 1, 1926.

Prior to his police work, Chief Cook had worked in the oil wheel works, and was a partner with Clarence Rudabaugh in a cigar business here.

Among the major happenings in the city since Chief Cook has been in office are two bank robberies, and a filling station hold-up when Ralph Wilcox died of gunshot wounds and three men arrested later at Mansfield were electrocuted for the crime.

SHERIFF L. D. HAMMOND

ASHLAND COUNTY SHERIFF, 26, BELIEVED YOUNGEST IN OHIO

ASHLAND—Sheriff L. Dale Hammond jumped from filling station attendant to the highest law enforcement office in the county in less than two years without a single campaign speech or soliciting of one vote.

It "just happened"—which is the way most officials would like to get there.

Young Hammond, who at 26 is believed to be the youngest sheriff in the state, made the grade in just two jumps—and both were by appointment.

Early in 1937 he was chosen deputy sheriff to succeed the late E. S. Gharst, leaving his job at a filling station to take over the duties.

The job of delivering court orders and summons and bringing in refractory celebrators, getting up at all hours of the night and in all kinds of weather wasn't exactly exciting, but Hammond liked it and "went to it" with a lot of enthusiasm.

One of his jobs was investigation of the attempted bombing of a warehouse owned by the Topping Brothers company and the bombing of a bungalow belonging to Dr. George Riebel, Troy road. Enough evidence was gathered to issue a warrant for a suspect.

When Sheriff H. F. Wallett was forced to resign because of ill health several months ago, county commissioners looked over the possible candidates and decided that Hammond was the man for the job. He was appointed to fill Wallett's unexpired term, which runs until Dec. 31, 1940.

Hammond has been active in enforcing the law against gambling devices and only recently confiscated two machines and prosecuted the operators.

The youthful officer has been popular because he has been impartial in his law enforcement program.

Bucyrus Factory Has Orders to Operate for 10 Days.

BUCYRUS—The possibility that the Kaynee factory, which has operated in Bucyrus for 18 years, will not be closed in favor of the Cleveland plant, as previously announced, was made known today by Mrs. Josephine Warnke, manager of the local branch.

The plant has sufficient orders to remain in operation for 10 days with 25 employees working, Mrs. Warnke stated. The shop will be closed but no equipment will be moved, she said.

A previous announcement made by plant officials, was to the effect that the Bucyrus plant would be abandoned and all work concentrated at the Cleveland shop.

BUCYRUS BOARD PICKS WELFARE COMMITTEEMEN

Legislation to Co-ordinate Social Work Discussed By Crawford Prosecutor.

BUCYRUS—Committees to serve the remainder of the year to bring current information in regard to the public assistance program, were appointed at a meeting of the Crawford county board of public assistance held Wednesday night in the office of Probate Judge Constance R. Keller.

The committees include: finance, L. G. Scanlon and Mrs. J. E. Faulkner; health, Rev. J. H. Butler and Miss Lucy Ailer, Galion visiting teacher and education, J. E. McLaughlin and Mrs. Milton Harmon.

Edward T. Talbott of Crestline presided and Prosecutor Leo J. Scanlon presented a report of the proposed legislation regarding co-ordination of welfare services in counties. Miss Hiler discussed the social security law a sit applies to aid to dependent children.

COUNCILMAN QUILTS

BUCYRUS—The resignation of W. C. Durr, Bucyrus councilman from the second ward, was tendered acceptable to the city council Thursday afternoon when council held a special session to adopt final legislation providing for a sewage service charge. Durr is leaving Bucyrus to accept a position as accountant in the state liquor department in Columbus. His successor will be appointed within two weeks, council indicated.

ADOPTION OF THE SEWAGE SERVICE CHARGE WILL GO INTO EFFECT AT ONCE

but bills will be mailed quarterly beginning July 1. Rates are based on the water consumption with a minimum of $1 a quarter. Funds realized from the charge will be used to operate the city's new sewage disposal plant which opened last week.

ELECTION SET

Bucyrus Scouts to Choose City 'Officers' April 13.

BUCYRUS—A primary election, April 13, in the city council chambers, will decide the candidates who will appear on the ballot for the general election a week later of Boy Scouts who will occupy city and council offices for one day in April.

Nearly 100 Scouts, elective and appointive, will take over the reins of government for one day as a result of the election.

Federalist and Nationalist political parties have already been formed by Scouts who are busy campaigning for their choice.

GOVERNMENT FOR ONE DAY

In charge of the election will be James McFarland, scout commissioner of this district; W. G. Beebe, past commissioner; George Dustman, district chairman; A. L. Stuckert, chief of police, and R. R. Peters, executive board member.

GO TO ATHENS

GALION—A group of Galion high school football players were taken to Athens Wednesday by Coach John Burnison to see a spring football game between two picked teams of the Ohio university squad. Galion players from the Orangemen's co-championship team who attended the game were Lawrence Maidens, Earl Kleinmecht, Clem Chandler, Allen Hocker, Robert Cline, Joe Tuscan and Dick Secrest.

HELD ON CHARGE

ASHLAND—Eugene L. Hamman, 45, of Troy, who on March 15 enrolled at the CCC camp at Loudonville giving his address as Dayton, was being held on charges of forgery on a warrant issued by E. J. Smick, police chief at Troy.

Hamman is charged with having forged a check for $25. He was arrested at the Loudonville camp by Deputy Sheriff M. F. Rickenbrod.

EASTER PROGRAM FEATURE AS GALION PROGRESS CLUB MEETS

GALION—An Easter program featured the meeting of the Progress club held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. O. E. Hill. The co-hostess was Mrs. W. W. Koppe. Roll call responses were given with Easter meditations. For the program the Easter story was given by Mrs. A. W. Bradford, and Mrs. William Dennig told of "The Passion Play of Oberammergau." All members joined in singing Easter songs during the evening. Appointments for the refreshments were suggestive of the season.

The March meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. E. Garverick and she was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. F. J. Egner. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Glenmore Hawkins, and the worship service was in charge of Mrs. E. D. Hammond. Papers were read by Mrs. Frances McBerly and Mrs. Fred Fortney.

Mrs. Ralph Deibig entertained members of her card club Thursday evening with a dinner at Bemiller's. Two guests, Mrs. Robert Heiby and Mrs. Harley Hershner, were welcomed. Later the group played bridge at the Deibig home. The club will meet next with Mrs. Robert Corry.

Members of the "36" club and five guests, Mrs. Wilbur Flowers, Geraldine Bersinger, Jean Halbert, Virginia Douglas and Martha

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS ASKED DRIVING LICENSE APPLICANTS

LATEST romantic rumors involve Bette Davis and George Brent, although Hollywood's No. 1 actress says there'll be no romance so long as she is married to Nelson Harmon. Brent was her supporting lead in "Dark Victory" and his detoured career takes a big forward step with his assignment to the role of Tom Ransome in "The Rains Came" . . . George Raft is the latest recruit to the ranks of film farmers in "Connecticut". He has just purchased a small farm near James Cagney's and not so far from Robert Mon-gomery's . . . Sonja Henie dropped 11 pounds while rehearsing the ballet numbers for "Winter Comes" and now weighs 101.

New Bill Saturday.

Priscilla Lane, one of the daughters in "Four Daughters," continues in a similar role in "Yes, My Darling Daughter," the top feature for a week at the Ohio, opening tomorrow. With her is the romantic Jeffrey Lynn who also appears opposite her in "Four Daughters." It's a strictly modern story about a very old theme and will interest mothers and fathers.
Fay Bainter, Roland Young, Ian Hunter and May Robson are in the cast. The second feature of the new bill, "King of the Turf," stars Adolphe Menjou in a racing picture with many human interest angles.

Stagecoach Hero.

William Boyd, the hero of the cattle country and stage coach days, rides to the aid of law and justice in Sacramento in his latest "Hopalong Cassidy" adventure on the Madison screen. He assumes the role of an eastern tenderfoot with a bank roll in order to trap an unscrupulous gambler.
"Spirit of Culver" and "The Sunset Trail" continue through Saturday with the new show "Ice Follies" introduced at the midnight show.

Diversified Bill.

There is a diversified bill at the Ritz today and tomorrow, with the dramatic "Ride a Crooked Mile" and a western action film, and a serial. In the first named attraction Akim Tamiroff is the dramatic star, supported by Frances Farmer and Laila Erikson. The western is "Overland Stage Raiders" featuring John Wayne and the other two "mesquites," Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune.

Bandit Turns Sheriff.

A law-breaker turns law enforcement officer when Charles Starrett, a bandit, is made county sheriff by a grateful community which is unaware of his identity.
His position and romance with the prettiest girl in town brings about a real reformation in "The Thundering West." The film is at the Majestic which also has Joan Blondell and Pat O'Brien in "Back in Circulation," a breezy newspaper yarn.

Builds Suspense.

Suspense builds up a big climax in "Secrets of a Nurse" when a man faces the electric chair while a girl works frantically to save him. The girl is Helen Mack, a nurse, and the one person who knows the truth, while Dick Foran is the man. Edmund Lowe plays the other man. "Adventure in Sahara," the second feature at the Park, is a Foreign Legion tale with Paul Kelly, C. Henry Gordon and Lorna Gray.

Here are the answers to the 30 questions appearing on Page 2 which pertain to the motor vehicle laws. Applicants for a driver's license must answer any 10 correctly before their application for a license is approved, providing they pass the actual driving test. The answers are:

1. One-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise and when weather conditions render it impossible to see at least 200 feet ahead.

tance ahead.
5. Yes.
6. When approaching the front and rear of a school bus which has stopped to discharge or take on children you must stop your vehicle at least 10 feet from the school bus and remain stationary until the children have entered or alighted and reached the nearest adjacent side of the highway.
7. Yes.
8. a—Manslaughter resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle in violation of the state law; b—Failing to stop after an accident; c—Perjury or making a false statement in registering a motor vehicle; d—Using a motor vehicle in committing a felony or after found guilty of any other felony under the motor vehicle laws; e—Operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotics.
9. Yes.
10. Give way to the right and not increase the speed until completely passed by the overtaking vehicle.
11. Make certain of assured clear distance ahead, give audible signal to the vehicle to be overtaken, pass to the left at safe distance, do not "cut in" too closely ahead of the overtaken vehicle.
12. Make certain the portion of the highway which you are about to enter is free from oncoming traffic for a distance sufficient to allow you to safely enter that part of the highway.
13. A vehicle approaching from the right.
14. Pay a fee of $1 to the registrar of motor vehicles plus any additional premium caused by increased horsepower.
15. September 30th of each calendar year.
16. Yes. A chauffeur's license can be used in place of an operator's license but an operator's license cannot be used in place of a chauffeur's license.
17. In the daytime a flag is placed 300 feet to the rear of the vehicle, a flag 300 feet ahead of the vehicle and one at the side of the vehicle. In night time, flares are used in place of flags.
18. Two headlights, one red taillight so arranged to throw a white beam on the rear license plate.
19. When passing another motor vehicle in the night season.
20. Yes.
21. When impossible to have an unobstructed view to the rear or when the operator is deaf.
22. Yes, when signs have been erected by the state highway department or the county commissioners.

23. Yes, vehicles must park facing the direction of traffic.
24. Yes.
25. Yes. Subject to a penalty of from one to 20 years in the penitentiary.
26. The speed laws of the state cannot be modified diminished or altered by any ordinance of a municipality or other public authority.
27. a—To keep slow moving moving traffic in the extreme right lane; b—To permit the use of the odd lane for passing vehicles; c—
To use odd lanes for left hand turns.
28. Stay as near to the right side of the road or curb as possible.
29. Do not turn left into the intersecting highway until you have passed the center of the intersection.
30. The right of a vehicle to proceed uninterrupted in the direction it is moving in preference to another vehicle approaching from a different direction into its path.

The driver's license examination is required only where the applicant for an operator's permit has not driven an automobile before, the patrolman pointed out.

Linta to Shoot at Schoolboy Record In Pittsburgh

Vaulter to Miss Team Inaugural

Mehock Sends Mansfield High Trackmen Against Springfield at Stadium Field Saturday.

MANSFIELD high school's thin-clads will not get their 1939 baptism until 2:30 p. m. Saturday, but they already have five points to the good.

John Linta, Coach Harry Mehock's pole vaulting star, will not appear with his teammates in the Red Streaks' inaugural at stadium field against Springfield, but his inability to appear in the competition will not cost many points.

Satterlee Bowlers Hang Up 2954 Series

Restaurant Club Wins Two Tilts to Remain Two Games Behind First-Place Printers.

COMPILING a total of 2954 from games of 1048, 965 and 941, the Satterlee Restaurant bowlers annexed scoring laurels in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Opening with a 248, Eugene Funston blasted out a 633 count to lead the Restaurant club to a pair of wins over the Yunker Sports, who came through with a 2872 series.

The two victories enabled the Satterlee bowlers to remain only two games behind the first-place Mansfield Printers, who added a pair of wins at the expense of the Office Cafe, tied with the Restaurant club for second place prior to last night's bowling.

The Burghardt Cafes hung up a 2877 count to take three games from the Shelby Cycles. Christ Herrick of the Burghardt team led the individual scoring with a 639, and Hazelwood of the Cycles added a 607.

The Kochheiser Sports rattled off a 2739 series and a pair of wins over the Ringside Cafe, and the Mansfield Rugs, led by Pete Linster's 636, came through with a 2738 count to take two wins from the Heilmann Grocers. Met's Auto Supplies scored two victories over Ohio Public Service.

OUR QUICK REDUCING PAYMENT PLAN

WAS MADE FOR ANY AVERAGE MAN WHO OFTEN TO HIMSELF HAS SAID:
"MY DEBTS WILL PUT ME SOON TO BED!"

A LOAN may be used for many purposes.

But perhaps the most important use of all is to balance the budget, reduce payments and allow you more money for bargains. A loan for these things is like a spring tonic. It restores your pep. It gives you a new feeling of confidence.

Your financial outlook "steps up" as your payments "step down" on our convenient repayment plan. You can pay fast or slow—extended over six months or two years. It's up to you.

GET YOUR CAR READY FOR THE BEST SEASON OF THE YEAR! ITS SPRING

Who Can Deny
The Lure of the Highway In the Spring?

BUT—Don't expect your car to deliver satisfactory performance if it has not been carefully checked and conditioned after a hard winter's driving. It is essential that it be lubricated with the correct Spring weights... that the motor, brakes and ignition be thoroughly gone over. This is the time for a "Spring Tune-Up" now BEFORE you make any spring motoring trips!

Is Your Car Ready For The Season's Driving?

Motorists:

Don't Drive an Unsafe Car!

Now is the time to see that your car is put in good mechanical condition for the season's driving. A few dollars spent now may save you much trouble and double expense later on. We have every modern device for reconditioning your motor, and our years of practical experience as motor specialists, together with the best motor rebuilding equipment and machine shop in Cental Ohio, are at your disposal. Your favorite mechanic is dependable and knows QUALITY PARTS. See him at once for a spring check-up.

BRITAIN, FRANCE TO BACK POLAND AGAINST NAZIS

Chamberlain Says Poles Given Definite Assurance of Armed Aid If Necessary.

in giving that assurance. Chamberlain said that the British government was in touch with other European governments, besides Soviet Russia, in a wide attempt to curb aggression. He specifically left the door open to the suggestion of Russia for a conference of powers but observed that there might be other effective means for discussions among European nations. The latter part of Chamberlain's statement was made in response to questions by Arthur Greenwood, deputy leader of the laborite opposite, who said: "May I in one sentence say that I am quite sure that this house realizes the potentialities that may arise from the statement of the prime minister. It may prove to be in its consequence as momentous a statement as has been made in this house for a quarter of a century. It is very difficult with such recent statements before the house to say very much, but I ask whether this statement which he has now made is to be regarded as the first step in developing policy to deter or restrain aggression?"

A long meeting of the cabinet for foreign affairs, and an extraordinary session of the cabinet at the house of commons preceded the statement by the 70-year-old prime minister. Chamberlain, fumbling with his spectacles and waving his hands, read his declaration in clipped tones. The house of commons was jammed. It was the first time outside of the League of Nations that Britain ever gave a bilateral guarantee to any country east of the Rhine.

Chamberlain said his government had no confirmation of rumors of any projected attack on Poland. Here's Text of Chamberlain Speech.

LONDON.—(AP)—Following is the text of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's statement to the house of commons today pledging aid to Poland: As I said this morning his majesty's government have no official confirmation of rumors of any projected attack on Poland. They must not, therefore, be taken as accepting them as true. I am glad to take this opportunity of stating again the general policy of His Majesty's government. They constantly advocated adjustment by way of free negotiation between the parties concerned of any differences that may arise between them. They consider this is a natural and proper course where differences exist. In their opinion there should be no question incapable of solution by peaceful means and they would see no justification for the substitution of force or threats of force for the method of negotiation.

As the house is aware certain consultations are now proceeding with other governments. In order to make perfectly clear the position of His Majesty's government in the meantime before those consultations are concluded, I now have to inform the house that during that period in the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered it vital to resist with its national forces, His Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend the Polish government all the support in their power.

They have given the Polish government an assurance to this effect. I may add the French government has authorized me to make it plain that they stand in the same position in this matter as to His Majesty's government.

Poland Sees Nazis Back Down on Threats. WARSAW.—(AP)—Polish government sources today hailed Prime Minister Chamberlain's promise of military assistance to preserve Poland's independence as likely to make Nazi Germany abandon any idea she may have had of obtaining Polish territory by threat of force.

The promise of military aid from both Britain and France came in the midst of intensive foreign office consultations preparing for Foreign Minister Joseph Beck's scheduled visit to London next week. The foreign office mouthpiece had implied Poland would accept a military alliance with Britain and France if Adolf Hitler refused Poland's appeal for a pledge to respect Polish rights and frontiers.

MARKED HAND Woman Bites Purse-Snatcher; She Leaves Clew For Police. CHICAGO.—(AP)—Miss Anna Pacan left her teeth marks on the hand of a robber who took her purse.

In due time the police arrested Aloysius Phillips, 22. When asked to explain the teeth marks on his right hand Phillips confessed, Detective James Lynch said. He was held on an open charge.

lately necessary to continue operations at the present level. During turbulent debate on the bill yesterday, many members, however, held out for the full amount of $150,000,000.

"If we don't get it," said Rep. Sweeney (D-Ohio), "we'll have riots. We might even have revolution."

A variety of WPA activities came in for criticism from foes of the new appropriation. Rep. Taber (R-NY) declared expenditures had been "wasteful and extravagant." The WPA, he said, has sponsored 1,215 theatrical productions at a cost of $40,000 each and had averaged an income from each of only $15,000.

Rep. Woodrum (D-Va) assailed expenditure of $300,000 for a permanent WPA exhibit building at the New York world's fair and for payment of $260 a month to electricians employed in constructing a New York City airport.

Rep. Burdick (R-ND) arguing for the president's request, asserted:

"When children are hungry and undernourished, what right have we to complain because the WPA put up an exhibit somewhere—to destroy the whole organization because of one mistake."

LET'S SEE IF YOU CAN PASS DRIVER'S TEST

State Patrol Shows Newsman How Much Average Autoist Doesn't Know of Laws.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

"So you think you can drive, huh?"

It was State Highway Patrolman C. W. Cale talking, as he challenged me to submit to an examination for a driver's license—I who had been driving an automobile for 16 years.

"Anything for a story," I replied, and dropped into a chair vacated by a 13-year-old boy who had just passed with flying colors.

Answers to the questions that are asked applicants for drivers' licenses will be found on page 21.

and was on his way out of the barracks with Patrolman Richard I. Governor to take the actual driving test.

Officer Cale picked up a small white pamphlet.

"Here are 30 questions, all of which pertain to motor vehicle laws of the state. An applicant for a driver's license is required to answer 10 correctly," he began.

This will be a pinch, I thought, because I had driven all these years without being "pinched" for violating the state traffic code.

But the patrolman's next statement stopped me.

Only One in Ten.

"If you can answer ten questions correctly, you will be one out of ten persons driving a car on the highway today who is able to do so," he said.

"It isn't the younger drivers who have passed this examination that are usually picked up on the highways for careless and reckless operation. It's the older drivers who think that because they have been driving for years that they know all the answers," Cale explained.

Then came the first question:

"Name five conditions you would consider in determining a safe driving speed on the highway?" he asked.

I stuttered.

"Weather and speed laws," I said. That's all I could think of at the moment. He then enumerated the five conditions.

The definition of "right-of-way" got me completely and the officer finally gave up before he got around to the tenth question.

"Here's this pamphlet," he said,

Can YOU Answer 'Em?

—News-Journal Photo

Mrs. Robert L. Hadsell, 21 Orchard street, was caught by The News-Journal cameraman yesterday after she successfully passed her driver's license examination. She smiles as State Highway Patrolman R. I. Governor approves the application that will entitle her to join the ranks of Ohio motorists.

"take it along and come back in 30 days; you will be better prepared to answer them after a little study."

If I passed the vision test for color blindness and could then drive a car to the satisfaction of the examining patrolman, I could take my certificate to the deputy registrar for an operator's license.

Hold Exams Monthly.

Examinations for drivers' licenses are held at the sub-station here on the second Saturday of the month. There is usually an average of 30 applicants. On the first Saturday of the month the patrolmen go to Mt. Gilead where they examine on the average of 20 applicants during the day.

They admit that girls and women have a better knowledge of the laws but are by far the worst drivers, probably because they are "over cautious."

Maybe you have driven an automobile for 10 or 20 years, but here are 30 possible questions that are asked applicants requiring an examination for a driver's license. Pick out any ten and see how near you could come to passing the examination if you were to be subjected to one today.

The questions are:

1. When should lights be displayed on a motor vehicle?
2. What does the law require of you as the driver of a motor vehicle which is involved in an accident on the highway?
3. Does the law require you to carry your driver's license when operating a motor vehicle?
4. Name some of the conditions you must consider in determining a safe speed on the highway. There are five.
5. Does the law require adequate brakes on a motor vehicle?
6. What are the requirements in approaching a school bus that stops to take on or discharge children?
7. Is it unlawful to use another's driving license?
8. Name three of the five principal violations for which a driver's license may be revoked. (Not suspended.)
9. Must you come to a full stop before entering an intersection where a "STOP" sign is erected under the authority of the highway director, even though no traffic is approaching?

10. What should you do when being overtaken and passed by another motor vehicle approaching from the rear?

11. What should you do when about to overtake and pass another vehicle?

12. When parked at a curb what is the most important thing to do before pulling into traffic?

13. Who has the right-of-way at an intersection in the absence of any signs?

14. What must you do to transfer your license plates from one vehicle to another?

15. When does the annual Ohio driver's license expire?

16. Is it unlawful to use an operator's license when employed as a chauffeur?

17. How are flags and flares displayed when a commercial vehicle, operating under the Public Utilities commission rules and regulations, is disabled on the highways?

18. What minimum number of lights are required on a motor vehicle operated at night?

19. When does the law require you to lower the beam of your headlights?

20. Does the law require a horn or other signal device on a motor vehicle?

21. When does the law require a rear vision mirror?

22. Is it unlawful to drive over a closed highway?

23. Is it unlawful to park a motor vehicle, other than in the direction of travel, on that side of the highway?

24. Is it unlawful for the driver of a motor vehicle to disregard the signals and directions of police officers?

25. Is it unlawful to operate a motor vehicle without the owner's consent?

26. Does a municipality have the power to alter, diminish or modify the speed laws of this state?

CHURCHES JOIN

Sponsor Evangelistic Service at Lexington Next Week.

LEXINGTON — A series of evangelistic services will open Sunday morning at the Church of Christ here and continue through Easter Sunday.

The series will be conducted by Jack Simmons of Covington, Va., and services will be held each evening at 7:30. The song service will be in charge of Jack W. Melick, pastor. Children's meetings are to be held each evening at 7:30.

Churches taking part are Grace Gospel Tabernacle and Gospel Center of Mansfield; Church of Christ, Shenandoah; Presbyterian church, Lexington; Caesarea Church of Christ; Congregational church, Lexington, and Church of Christ of Shelby.

Subjects for the services are: Sunday morning, "The Need of the Church Today"; Sunday evening, "What Happens When One Becomes a Christian?"; Monday, "Why Peter Fell"; Tuesday, "That Unpopular Subject—Sin"; Wednesday, "Why Calvary?"; Thursday, "Lessons From the Cross"; Friday, "The Farewell Message of Our Lord"; Saturday, "Eternity—Where?"; Easter Sunday morning, "The Message of the Resurrection," and Sunday evening, "Man's Greatest Question."

ROSEBURG, Ore.—(INS)—Foot-sore and weary, Jack Hurst, 18-year-old hitch hiker, was disappointed to find the doors of the city hall locked. Confronted with the problem of having no place to sleep, he smashed a window, climbed in and proceeded to make himself comfortable for the night in a vacant cell block. Next day, City Recorder A. J. Geddes officially prevailed on the youth to extend his visit for five more days in the city jail.

CO-EDS STAGE 'BEAUTY BATTLE'

Kent, Akron Girls to Settle Argument on Fairness.

KENT—(UP)—Armed with lipsticks and eyebrow pencils, co-eds from Akron university and Kent State university are preparing to meet in a "Battle of Beauty."

Seven from each school, chosen by "experts" from the art departments, are to compete to settle an argument which has been raging between the two schools as to their relative percentage of pulchritude. Akron is less than 10 miles from here.

DESCENDANT OF LINCOLN'S KIN IN FEDERAL PLAY

Bears Marked Resemblance to 'Abe' at Time He Clerked in Salem Grocery.

When "Prologue to Glory," the Federal Theater play, appears in Mansfield on April 17, Lyle Hagen will play the role of young Abraham Lincoln.

The play which has attracted nation-wide interest, is being sponsored by the Mansfield Public Parks association for the benefit of the community Fourth of July celebration.

While Hagen was selected several years ago for the role of Lincoln because of his acting ability after he had been in repertoire stock for several years, two rather unusual coincidences marked his appearance in the role.

He is a direct descendant of Sarah Lincoln, sister of the former president, and he bears a marked resemblance to Lincoln at the time he worked in a grocery store in New Salem, Ill.

Same Height as Lincoln. Hagen is six feet, three inches tall, exactly Lincoln's height, and has black hair and rugged features.

He is a descendant of the Illinois Grisbys, one of his ancestors having married Sarah Lincoln, a sister of Abe. His father, J. J. Hagen, is considered an authority on Lincoln and for years has lectured on the great rail splitter in Illinois schools and clubs.

Much of the action of the play revolves around Lincoln's brief romance with Ann Rutledge, a role in the play that is done by Fannie Ellen, young American actress. Both of them have appeared in stock and in radio and vaudeville sketches.

"Prologue to Glory" will be presented at afternoon and evening performances at Senior High school auditorium. All seats for the evening performance will be reserved at Tawse's pharmacy, from the general admission tickets which are now being sold by the various park associations.

FALSE ALARM

Clam Digger Excites Coast Guards By Flashing Lantern.

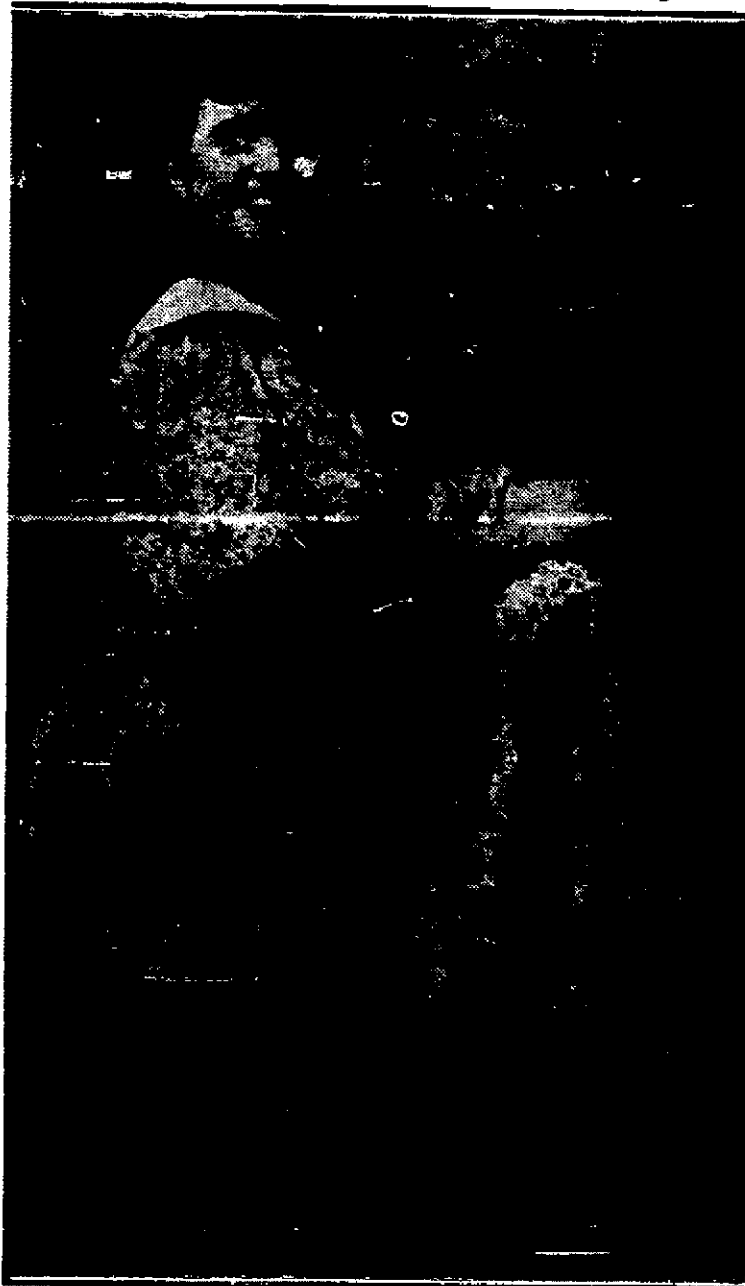

ASTORIA, Ore. — (INS) — On one of those nights "not fit for man nor beast," coast guardsmen left their warm fires and card games in answer to a ship's lantern flashing the distress signal near the spot where wreckage of several boats dot the beach along the Washington coast.

After battling heavy seas across the mouth of the Columbia River, irate guardsmen found Don Hall of Long Beach, Wash., diligently digging clams and hoisting his lantern every time a breaker swept into keep it from going out.

WAILS OVER MISSING SHIP
ALAMEDA, Cal.—(UP)—Peter, a big cat that has made its home aboard the freighter Santa Cruz Cement for many years, had the misfortune while wandering about the docks to miss the sailing. When the pet discovered the ship had sailed it set up such a caterwauling that officials of the company placed it in charge of a kennel keeper until the ship gets back in three weeks.

MICHIGAN READY FOR SMELT RUN

Elaborate Festivals Being Planned for Peak of Spawning Runs.

ESCANABA, Mich.—(UP)—Hundreds of northern Michigan residents are preparing for annual smelt runs that usually herald in this district the beginning of spring.

In Escanaba, Boyne City, Beulah and East Jordan, elaborate festivals are being planned for the peak of the smelt spawning runs, expected early in April. And along dozens of other Michigan streams sportsmen are waiting for signs of the silvery fish that fill the waters in their annual homeward journey.

At Escanaba, whose fifth annual festival is expected to attract thousands of persons from throughout the Middle West, officials said the run would begin about Saturday and reach its peak during the celebration, April 13-15. They hoped for a take equal to last year's, when more than a thousand tons were dipped from a dozen nearby streams. The runs may come earlier in lower Michigan areas.

Most of the major festivals will be ruled by queens, among them blond Virginia Lindsay at Boyne City and dairk-haired Barbara Banks at Escanaba. East Jordan, however, will have a King of Smeltium to preside during parades, street events, and a stag banquet.

Escanaba's celebration will be preceded with a smelt and all-Michigan food products dinner in Washington April 8 for congressmen and federal officials.

DINOSAURS WIN

Oilman Receives Diploma of Honor for Models.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(INS)—Because of his ability to model miniature dinosaurs from clay, Karl W. Bland, Santa Barbara service station operator, has received the highest honor, the governor of the Mexican state of Baja California can bestow.

Bland has presented Tijuana high school with a collection of more than 30 prehistoric monsters, modelled to a scale of 1/64 actual size. The service station operator studied paleontology while a student at the University of Southern California and now, during spare hours, continues to fashion scientifically accurate models of the extinct beasts.

In recognition of the presentation to the Mexican school, the governor of Baja California presented Bland with a diploma of honor. He will also receive a military medal from the Academy of Science.

The New Hanover Fishing club at Wilmington, N. C., claims its paid up membership of 762 is the largest of any similar club in America.

COURT DOCKET CROWDED WITH MARITAL CASES

13 of 17 Suits Up for Hearing
Next Week Involve Divorce or Alimony Actions.

With 17 cases including 13 for divorce or alimony, set for hearing beginning Monday, Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston has a busy week ahead.

The court calendar, set up by C. A. McKinley, assignment clerk, calls for hearing of four cases Monday, five on Tuesday, six Wednesday and two on Thursday. A number of them, however, probably will be settled or dismissed before the trial dates, court attaches said.

One of the cases, which involves a quarrel over a telephone line between Bellville and Butler, is three years old. In the action, the Mansfield Telephone company seeks an injunction to restrain William J. Donough from destroying the company's lines across his property in the southern part of the county. The case is set for trial Monday.

In another injunction suit, W. H. Sorgen seeks to restrain George Myers from cutting timber on a 40-acre farm in Bloominggrove township and to require him to account for damage to the farm.

Week's Schedule.
The schedule of cases follows:
Monday — W. H. Sorgen vs. George Myers, for injunction, Atty. A. S. Beach for plaintiff; Mansfield Telephone company vs. William J. Donough, for injunction, Atty. J. H. Hensel and George W. Biddle for plaintiff and C. J. Kallbfleisch for defendant; First Federal Savings and Loan company vs. Max T. Law's and others, for $2,984 foreclosure judgment, Atty. Murray S. Parker for plaintiff and Beam and Beam for defendant; Harold Hazen vs. Helen Y. Hazen, for divorce, Atty. Raymond J. Brown for plaintiff.

Tuesday — Glenna Pfeider vs. Fred M. Pfeider, for divorce, Atty. Beam and Beam for plaintiff and George W. Biddle for defendant; Essie McCullough vs. Joe McCullough, divorce, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Lloyd S. Limbers vs. Helen L. Limbers, divorce, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Mildred W. Wirick vs. Woodrow Wirick, divorce, Atty. C. F. Creedman for plaintiff; June Crabb vs. Clarence Crabb, divorce, Atty. C. F. Creedman for plaintiff.

Wednesday — Inez Brown vs. Edward H. Brown, divorce, Atty. W. C. Beer, jr., for plaintiff and R. E. Hutchison for defendant; Gladys J. Taylor vs. Marion H. Taylor, divorce, Atty. Studart H. Cramer for plaintiff; Minnie Keener vs. Louis Keener, alimony, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Eleanor Allen vs. John Allen, divorce, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Emma Pierce vs. Roy Pierce, alimony, Atty. George W. Biddle for plaintiff; Phyllis Allen vs. William Allen, divorce, Atty.

REFUGEES FIND NEW LIFE HOPE IN VENEZUELA

Wandering Band of 165 Thrice Refused Now Happy in New Camp.

CARACAS, Venezuela.—(U.P.)—
The group of 165 refugees from Germany, which was barred at three ports, has found a haven in Venezuela at last.

This band of wandering Jews chiefly Austrians from Vienna, included men and women in their 70's, middle aged and young, and babies in arms. Government authorities relaxed the strict immigration rules to admit the refugees, thus ending what seemed a journey of despair.

The party sailed from Hamburg on the Red Star steamer, Koenigstein bound for Trinidad, the British island off the coast of Venezuela, where, spokesmen said, arrangements had been made for them to disembark although they lacked passport visas.

The refugees were barred from Port of Spain, from Barbadoes and from Georgetown in British Guiana, and as a last resort the vessel put in to the Venezuelan port of La Guaira, where it lay for five days until a Jewish refugee aid committee in Caracas obtained permission for them to land.

Farm Set Aside For Party.
Dr. Aza Sanchez, a Caracas attorney, granted the use of his property—a farm about 20 miles from Caracas, reached by a dusty winding road. There the refugees are under internment for 60 days, pending time when places can be found for them in Venezuela's normal economic life.

The party lives in camp quarters. Beds are side by side in parallel rows under a roofed gallery, open on one side to a long patio. Their trunks and other heavy luggage are piled in orderly rows on both sides of the patio.
At one end is an al fresco kitchen where the women of the party in rotating crews, cook the meals in large iron pots over open fires.
At the other end of the patio is the commissary and stores where foodstuffs and other supplies are kept, and the hospital, staffed by the seven physicians and one dentist of the party.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1939

Whatever it is that "the world is coming to"—it's getting nearer each day.

Inmates of San Quentin prison are complaining that the food is "poisonous" and also that "personal liberty" is being interfered with.

Some folks may have an idea that the United States might provide a better example in running its own affairs before it passes an act to help other nations.

Driver's License Seldom Shown.

BECAUSE license plates must be plainly displayed on front and rear of cars, there is little indication among motorists to use old plates after the date on which new ones are required.

It may be doubted if any old plates will be seen on streets or highways tomorrow—the day on which new licenses are required by law—although some cars may be left in the garage because new licenses have not yet been secured.

The same confusion cannot be felt, however, in all motorists being provided with current drivers' licenses, as license cards are inconspicuously carried in the pocket and there is ordinarily no requirement for showing them except in cases of accident or arrest for traffic violation.

A recent fatality in this county revealed that the youthful driver had not taken the trouble to renew his driver's license, and it is not unlikely that a check-up would disclose a number of instances of this sort, as the whole set-up of drivers' license requirements in Ohio has been considered as something of a joke, with licenses issued to practically all applicants without regard for driving ability, mental competence or drinking habits.

Until there is a tightening up in issuing drivers' licenses, and an understanding among motorists that they may be asked at any time to show their driver's license to a police officer or highway patrolman, there is little likelihood of Ohio's drivers' license law making any material contribution to traffic safety.

To Observe Baseball's Centenary.

MANSFIELD will participate in the national observance of Baseball week, April 1 to 8, which will mark the centennial year of the popular diamond sport.

It was in Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1839, that Major General Abner Doubleday laid out the first diamond and instituted a game which, though quite drastically changed in rules and practice, can still be recognized as fundamentally the game conceived 100 years ago and formalized out of a game called "one old cat," said to have been played before the Revolutionary war.

Plans for this city's recognition of baseball's first 100 years are being furthered by a Citizens' committee, headed by Herbert R. Slough, co-operating with the Mansfield baseball club, which is to operate in the Ohio State league as an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians, in the establishment of organized baseball here this year.

Mansfield will observe Baseball week by conducting a city-wide ticket campaign for the team's opening game with Tiffin at the Fairground, May 3. This game will mark the start of a new era in Mansfield—night baseball.

Other activities in observance of the centennial year will be staged during the course of the season.

As to Local Option on 3.2 Beer.

EFFORTS of Ohio brewers to secure enactment of a law preventing local option election on the sale of 3.2 beer seem ill-advised, in view of present disturbed conditions in liquor law enforcement in this state.

Continued insistence that 3.2 beer is non-intoxicating is entirely beside the point as it has become clear that legal sale of 3.2 beer—standards as well as work days—has been used by a number of unscrupulous dealers to cloak the illegal sale of higher powered beer, and liquor.

Nor has there been any indication that 3.2 beer is not intoxicating, in view of the fact that it is well known to be so, and that it is well known to be so, and that it is well known to be so.

As the law now stands, it is up to decision of a majority of voters in cities, villages and townships as to whether sale of beer or liquor shall be permitted, thus giving each community the right of self-determination on this subject.

It is not to be expected that, without reason, the residents of a particular community should be allowed to decide such questions, and that they should be allowed to decide such questions, and that they should be allowed to decide such questions.

Nothing to Wrangle About.

MASTER is a common law process to establish a right of property in land. This right is part of the common law, and it is a right which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

The common law is a body of law which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a body of law which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a body of law which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

Books for Sailors.

THE annual directory of the American Merchant Marine Library Association for 1939 has been published. This directory is a valuable reference work for sailors and is a valuable reference work for sailors.

Donors may send books from their own shelves or new books bought especially for the purpose. In either case, judgment should be used. Only a third of the calls are for fiction. Nautical textbooks, history, philosophy, technical and scientific works are all in demand.

Keeping Step

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—No one knows exactly when it is coming, but the capitals of the whole world are expecting that long delayed blow to Soviet Russia from Germany in the fairly near future.

Everyone who has studied the European situation for the last ten years has known that Germany coveted the Ukraine, that southwestern corner of Russia, on the Black Sea, so rich agriculturally and in natural resources.

Present expectation is that the blow when it comes will take the form of an insurrection, followed by the setting up of an independent government in the Ukraine with no allowed ties with any other nation, but actually under the thumb of Germany.

As a matter of fact, Berlin has been working away for this country for several years, carrying on with the job of stirring up the people of the Ukraine against the Soviet and for independence. Most of them have disappeared into the Soviet army, and the Soviet army has been fighting about the world, and the world has been fighting about the world.

SO FAR Hitler has fooled most of the world because his moves have come in such quick succession. So far thinking would not have been different from that in other world capitals if it had occurred that the danger of trouble in the Ukraine was rather remote, that Hitler might be dead before he got round to it.

For example, after the seizure of Austria, little more than a year ago, it was generally assumed by the world's non-German diplomats that the Reich would be kept busy for several years "digging" Austria. In fact, they were rather surprised by the speed with which the Austrian move was carried out. Looking on the thing with hindsight, Hitler's strategy becomes much clearer. But at the time they could understand why the seizure of Austria was handled so ruthlessly.

The point is that there was never any doubt in Paris, or London, or Geneva that Hitler could have obtained Austria without resorting to any pressure tactics or brutality whatever. A considerable majority of the inhabitants of that little country, once the emperor of a proud empire, actually wanted the Anschluss. Hitler could have held off just a little while, till the fruit was ripe, and then acquired Austria by an overwhelming vote of the Austrians.

So the diplomatic world was surprised when Hitler so brusquely used the iron heel, making a terror of the joke referendum, and harshly treating every public figure who had tried to postpone the day.

It is much clearer with hindsight. Hitler wanted to set no example which would have been unable to follow in Czechoslovakia, and which he may not want to follow, sooner or later in Hungary or Rumania. And there is also the situation in Lithuania. Hitler wanted the terror as a warning to leaders of other occupied states and provinces, of what might happen to them if they stood out against absorption by the Reich.

THERE are diplomats, however, who think that the case with Austria was "digested" and that the Jews there was not much of a minority in Austria that reason of any action which resulted in the Anschluss. Hence, with this one exception, there was no minority in the rest of Europe. But this is not true of Czechoslovakia. It will not be true if he marches on Hungary or Rumania, or on the remainder of Lithuania.

"April Fool" Is An Old Custom

—By JEAN NEWTON

Playing pranks is a custom upon the day of the first of April is not a distinctly American pastime. It has been done for centuries in the civilized world, but it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

Some say April first fooling is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

It is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

It is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

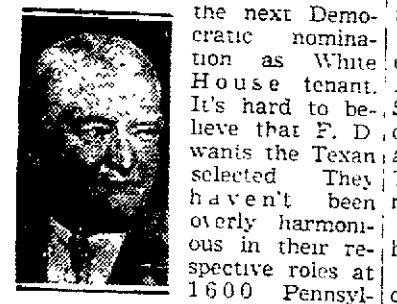

It is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature, and it is a custom which is not subject to the whims of a legislature.

Garner's Chances Don't Look Bad

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

MAYBE Elliott Roosevelt was right in his recent assertion that Vice President John N. Garner is the leading candidate for the next Democratic nomination as White House tenant.

Garner

It is hard to believe that P. D. doesn't class as a southern state as the southeastern group do.

Secondly, while conservative, he isn't rampantly anti-liberal. Thirdly, the range of his political experience is almost unlimited. Most past vice presidents have been comparatively unskilled in party technicalities. He's a past master at the game.

Fourthly, he's a marvelous wisecracker. Things aren't so bad for a congressional party leader when he has a majority back of him.

But Garner was Democratic leader of the house of representatives when his group was a hopeless minority. His minority was split too. The Democrats always are. The late Speaker Joseph W. Byrns once explained this to me from his standpoint.

Notoriously, if there's a job in this country which forecloses its incumbent against promotion it's the vice presidency. A couple of vice presidents (Teddy Roosevelt and Cal Coolidge) have graduated to the presidency and then been presidentially nominated and elected, but for vice president to serve out his vice presidential term, and then to be presidentially nominated? That would be unprecedented.

All the same, it's easy to see why Cactus Jack should be a strong candidate. There really are only two material counts against him.

1—He's been vice president perhaps he's good enough to off-set that.

2—He's nearly 70—traditionally too old to start in on an executive job.

But these are the only two material counts against him.

George C. Balliett resumed position as letter carrier after discharge from military service. Capital stock of Kenney Foundation company was increased from $2,000 to $100,000.

C. H. McConnell returned to Mansfield from Ashland to become assistant secretary of Chamber of Commerce.

Five hundred workers were automatically discharged when the CWA program ended in the county.

Laughlin was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Laughlin, 835 Broadway street, and Mrs. Jack Laughlin, 835 Broadway street, and Mrs. Jack Laughlin, 835 Broadway street.

Heights, celebrated with day anniversary was for playmen.

Councilman Charles and Albert Wentz were elected all over the world, working always with people.

When Katherine Cornell was a

"We Democrats," he said, "honest convictions, but we clash in these convictions. The Republicans never clash in campaign lines. All they want to do is break into office. They don't care whether they climb in through the cellar window or scale a ramp and enter by way of the attic. Once inside they may quarrel over the loot, but they're united in committing burglary."

Our Democratic squabbling's done in advance—which is why they beat us on election days."

Nevertheless, Garner kept his split minority in pretty good order. In those days Garner's minority was a trifling too minus to be pleasant.

Yet a majority, if overly preponderant, has a tendency to divide itself. The Republicans showed that trend. The talk was to the effect that an excessive majority was undesirable.

He listened and then he said reflectively: "Do you know, I'd rather have a topheavy majority."

Listen, World!

The Quiet Meadow.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BELOW my camp in the mountains, there is a little meadow. One comes upon it unexpectedly, at a turn in the trail.

The trails are dusty and rocky, thick with thorny bush. They are work trails. They belong to everyday life. They belong with digging ditches and building dams and raising corn and herding cattle. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets. They are not the trails of the poets.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The other day while having my locks trimmed in one of the Rockefeller Center shops I asked the cutter "Were you listening in on Orson Welles' broadcast the other night?"

"No, I wasn't," he said, "but I wish I had. All the boys are talking about it."

This was the broadcast in which Welles and his cast gave a dramatization of "Beau Geste," a blood and thunder tale of the French Foreign Legion. As soon as it was over Welles introduced an ex-legionnaire to his listeners and plied him with a few questions.

"I know it isn't proper to ask a man why he joined the Legion," began Welles apologetically, "but could I ask that of you?"

"Sure," replied the fellow, "I was a 16-year-old kid living in Alsace and I craved excitement. I had five years of it in the Legion."

"Then what did you do?" Welles wanted to know.

"I became a barber in Rockefeller Center."

This was the incident we had in mind, and when I began looking around, hoping to see him, my barber said:

"He isn't in this shop. This is the International building. He's over in the RCA building and he's on the first chair. He had a swell time. They paid him a hundred dollars."

YOU never know whom you'll encounter in New York, but this much is certain; very often it will be the last person in the world you expect to see.

We had dropped into the Revere Room at the Lexington, a duck fancier and myself, about 10 o'clock in the evening. This man had a place in Connecticut and on it he has a varied assortment of ducks. He was talking about them. All about the room were little knots of people, and they were talking too—maybe they were talking about ducks. After a while we noticed a man with two companions sitting in a corner next to the hat check counter.

He seemed vaguely familiar. He was very friendly and very earnest, dressed in a conservative brown suit with a brown striped tie, and talking steadily to his companions. Words began to drift our way and eventually it became clear that he was talking about handbills and letting people know about a meeting he was going to hold.

And then we recognized him—Dr. Townsend, planning a campaign to further his pension scheme. But it wasn't the sudden realization of his identity, or even the talk of handbills that startled us. It was seeing a water place before him some imported sherry. What would those California wine growers think of you, Doctor, if they knew you were asking for imported sherry.

EVERY now and then you run into someone who craves the stage or the spotlight irrespective of wealth or monetary reward. It isn't the money that counts; it's doing something they've always wanted to do.

Such a situation exists right here in New York—at a nightclub on the east side. We were in there a little while the other night and suddenly a young man came up to sing.

"See that fellow who told us, 'I don't know him—it comes to me in the night?'"

"But mostly it's nothing to him. He's a club like Club Monaco. He owns the place."

"He's a club like Club Monaco. He owns the place."

"He's a club like Club Monaco. He owns the place."

"He's a club like Club Monaco. He owns the place."

"He's a club like Club Monaco. He owns the place."

Health Advice

"Growing Up" Means Emotional Maturity.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I AM frequently asked to recommend a book for young people, which instructs them about the changed world that they find after they come from the protected period of childhood. I can recommend one published by Whittlesey House, called A Girl Grows Up, by Ruth Elder, M. A.

Buck's frank and sensible advice about the physical changes that come in girls at the age of adolescence, contains a great deal of good psychology.

What is meant by growing up? It means emotional maturity. The mature person generally has a sense of security, of knowing what is expected of her, and what she can do. She has learned how to get along happily with people. She may employ many techniques to do so. She is willing to take responsibility. She may be praised or criticized for what she has done but she takes the responsibility for it.

Can't Meet All. No high school girl could be expected to meet successfully all of these standards. That is true. But because the standards are for the adult, the girl who is growing up must have a sense of the standards.

Very few complete adults can meet these requirements, but if the high school girl, in gaining self-confidence, will consider seriously how she may attain security, how she may get along with people, how she may take responsibility, she will go a long way toward growing up.

Growing up is a problem for all girls at the adolescent age, and it is often a very difficult one for parents and teachers.

A handout from more of the standards is a disadvantage. A girl who is growing up must have a sense of the standards.

How It Started

"A Self-Made Man."

John Bright, grudgingly admitting that Disraeli was entitled to credit for being a self-made man, added:

"Yet he worships his maker!" "A self-made man," the expression, not the individual, boasts a literary origin.

It is the use of the phrase in the classic Autocrat of the Breakfast Table that cemented its place in the English language.

"Everyone," wrote Oliver Wendell Holmes, "likes and respects the self-made man. Your self-made man is whittled into shape by his own jack-knife and sharpens more credit than the regular engine-turned article, shaped by the most approved pattern and French-polished by society and travel."

Iron workers ever developed? The question raised anew by yesterday's accident on the Brighton bridge. Various safety devices have been tried in this hazardous line of work without success. The most famous failure along this line occurred some five years ago on the now completed Wetmore bridge across the Colorado river at Wetmore, Colo.

A safety net was developed at that time by James Rankin, the assistant engineer in charge of the bridge. The net was given much publicity in the trade journals, and a test was arranged with the representative of a large manufacturing company present. One of the bridge workers, a friend of Rankin's, volunteered to jump from the top span while Rankin manipulated the net. The force of the jump sent the experimenter through the net and into the water below. Because of the entangling meshes, it was impossible to reach him and he drowned.

Rankin, who claimed his invention had been tampered with, disappeared after making a statement to that effect. Upon examination it was found the net had been purposely weakened. Further investigation uncovered friction between the victim and Rankin over ownership of the pending patent. For his part in the much publicized experiment, the victim had demanded a share of future royalties, an arrangement to which the inventor objected.

"Subsequently, a suit against Rankin was entered by the dead man's heirs, but the patent on the net, which was granted to Rankin, ject. You wouldn't know why, I suppose?"

She was looking at the paper as she spoke and Lona's heart jumped. The nurse's eye was traveling down toward that picture and its story. In another moment she would see it. Would she grasp the significance?

"There's something I'd like you and the doctor to do for me," Lona burst out, desperately, and the nurse raised her eyes from the paper, struck by her altered tone. "It's about this—this delirium of Jim's. You see, Jim is rather sensitive. He'd hate to have anyone know he was out of his head. He thinks it's sort of a disgrace, somehow. I'm wondering

"Our patient's quite a hero," she observed in her professional voice. "Newspapers make people so romantic, don't you think, Mrs. Bennett?"

She reached for the folded paper and Lona felt a sudden impulse to tear it up. She could have screamed at the woman opening the page. Then, with an effort, she pulled herself together.

"How is he?" she managed to ask, her voice surprising her by its nonchalance. "Is he—rational?"

"He's still a little delirious, but you mustn't worry. It's only to be expected in a case like this. He keeps talking about some kind of a net, as if it bothered him. It's odd how he keeps on that one sub-

If you'll keep everybody away from him until he's normal again. Just you and the doctor and myself, of course. He'd hate for anybody else to know—" She broke off, conscious that her explanation was lame.

But the nurse smiled indulgently. "You mustn't worry about that, Mrs. Bennett," she soothed. "Of course we're keeping everybody out. We've even shoed you away when you'd stand for it," she laughed.

"Jim would particularly hate for the men at the bridge to know he's raving," Lona stumbled on. "There is a Mr. Martin, the engineer, who comes to see him. You mustn't let him in."

"Why, my dear, of course he won't get in. Are—are you sure you're not a little feverish yourself? You mustn't let this get sort of—get me," she managed to observe, and tried to hide the shyness that came over her as she approached Jim's door, and the hoarse murmur of his voice sounded from inside.

"The net! . . . The net!" he was crying as they entered, and Lona's heart went sick within her. She MUST keep people away from him. Nobody must hear, least of all Engineer Martin, and Dinah.

(To Be Continued)

Government farm economists predicted at the start of the year that 1939 would see improvement in the agricultural situation.

Whatever it is that "the world is coming to"—it's getting nearer each day.

Limates of San Quentin prison are complaining that the food is monotonous—and, also, their "personal liberty" is being interfered with.

Some folks may have an idea that the United States might provide a better example in running its own affairs before it poses as an expert in advising other nations.

Driver's License Seldom Shown.

BECAUSE license plates must be plainly displayed on front and rear of cars, there is little inclination among motorists to use old plates after the date on which new ones are required.

It may be doubted if any old plates will be seen on streets or highways tomorrow—the day on which new licenses are required by law—although some cars may be left in the garage because new licenses have not yet been secured.

The same confidence cannot be felt, however, in all motorists being provided with current drivers' licenses, as license cards are inconspicuously carried in the pocket and there is ordinarily no requirement for showing them except in cases of accident or arrest for traffic violation.

A recent fatality in this county revealed that the youthful driver had not taken the trouble to renew his driver's license, and it is not unlikely that a check-up would disclose a number of instances of this sort, as the whole set-up of drivers' license requirements in Ohio has been considered as something of a joke, with licenses issued to practically all applicants without regard for driving ability, mental competence or drinking habits.

Until there is a tightening up in issuing drivers' licenses, and an understanding among motorists that they may be asked at any time to show their driver's license to a police officer or highway patrolman, there is little likelihood of Ohio's drivers' license law making any material contribution to traffic safety.

To Observe Baseball's Centenary.

MANSFIELD will participate in the national observance of Baseball week, April 1 to 8, which will mark the centennial year of the popular diamond sport.

It was in Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1839, that Major General Abner Doubleday laid out the first diamond and instituted a game which, though quite drastically changed in rules and practice, can still be recognized as fundamentally the game conceived 100 years ago and formalized out of a game called "one old cat," said to have been played before the Revolutionary war.

Plans for this city's recognition of baseball's first 100 years are being furthered by a Citizens' committee, headed by Herbert R. Slough, co-operating with the Mansfield baseball club, which is to operate in the Ohio State league as an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians, in the establishment of an organized baseball here this year.

Mansfield will observe Baseball week by conducting a city-wide ticket campaign for the team's opening game with Tiffin at the Fairground, May 3. This game will mark the start of a new era in Mansfield—night baseball.

Other activities in observance of the centennial year will be staged during the course of the season.

As to Local Option on 3.2 Beer.

EFFORTS of Ohio brewers to secure enactment of a law preventing local option elections on the sale of 3.2 beer seem ill-advised, in view of present disturbed conditions in liquor law enforcement in this state.

Continued insistence that 3.2 beer is non-intoxicating is entirely beside the point, as it has become clear that legal sale of 3.2 beer—Sundays as well as week days—has been used by a number of unscrupulous dealers to cloak the illegal sale of higher powered beer and liquor.

Nor has it been convincingly demonstrated that 3.2 beer is not intoxicating to youthful drinkers unaccustomed to alcoholic stimulants, or that it does not lead to indulgence in other forms of intemperance.

As the law now stands, it is up to decision of a majority of voters in cities, villages and townships as to whether sale of beer or liquor shall be permitted, thus giving each community the right of self-determination on this subject.

It appears entirely proper that, within reason, the residents of a particular locality should be allowed to decide such questions, rather than that the state should tell them that they must have beer places, regardless of their own views. It is the matter of local self-government that is really at issue.

Nothing to Wrangle About.

MEASURES are introduced in congress to establish a naval base at Wrangle Island. This project is part of a general movement among the major powers to collect any islands not already nailed down, especially those which might possibly serve as future air bases.

That is the only advantage claimed for the property mentioned. It is a black spot 30 miles wide and 70 miles long, in the Arctic ocean, some distance off the Asiatic mainland and 400 miles west of Alaska. It is just about that of Point Barrow, Alaska's northernmost tip. Its inhabitants are polar bears and seals.

The idea is that the island might serve as a link in an air transportation route running over the top of the world.

Books for Sailors.

THE annual drive of the American Merchant Marine Library association for books for seamen has more importance than ever this year. The merchant marine replacement program, aiming at fifty new ships a year for the next ten years, will mean a steadily enlarging personnel and an increasing demand for books for distribution to ships and lighthouses.

Donors may send books from their own shelves or new books bought especially for the purpose. In either case, judgment should be used. Only a third of the calls are for fiction. Nautical textbooks, history, philosophy, technical and scientific works are all in demand.

Keeping Step

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—No one knows exactly when it is coming, but the capitals of the whole world are expecting that long delayed blow to Soviet Russia from Germany in the fairly near future.

Everyone who has studied the European situation for the last ten years has known that Germany coveted the Ukraine, that southwestern corner of Russia, on the Black Sea so rich agriculturally and in natural resources.

Present expectation is that the blow, when it comes, will take the form of an insurrection, followed by the acting up of an independent government in Ukraine, with no avowed ties with any other nation, but actually as much under the thumb of Berlin as Manchukuo under the domination of Tokio.

As a matter of fact, Berlin has been paving the way for this event-uality for several years. German agitators, with the job of stirring up the people of the Ukraine against the Soviet and for independence, have poured into the territory. Most of them have "disappeared." The Soviet authorities know just as much about the aims of Hitler in this part of the world as anyone else, and whatever their ultimate intentions, a great many German agents have paid the price for their secret

so far.

SO FAR Hitler has fooled most of the world because his moves have come in such quick succession. Soviet thinking would not have been different from that in other world capitals if it had assumed that the danger of trouble in the Ukraine was rather remote—that Hitler might be dead before he got round to it.

For example, after the seizure of Austria, little more than a year ago, it was generally assumed by the world's non-German diplomats that the Reich would be kept busy for several years

"digesting" Austria. In fact, they were very much surprised by the speed with which the Austrian move was carried out. Looking on the thing with hind-sight,

Hitler's strategy becomes much clearer. But at the time few could understand why the seizure of Austria was handled so ruthlessly.

The point is that there was never any doubt in Paris, or London, or Geneva that Hitler could have obtained Austria without resorting to any pressure tactics or brutality whatever. He had a considerable majority of the inhabi-ants of that little country, once the center of a proud empire, actually wanted the Anschluss. Hitler could have had off just a little while, till the fruit was ripe, and then acquired Austria by an overwhelming vote of the Austrians themselves, a vote conducted by Austrian authorities who were

German Nazi within her borders.

So the diplomatic world was surprised when Hitler so brusquely used the iron heel, making a terror of the joke referendum, and harshly treating every public figure who had tried to postpone the evil day.

It is much clearer with hindsight. Hitler wanted to set an example which he would have been unable to follow in Czechoslovakia, and which he may not want to follow, sooner or later, in Hungary or Rumania. And there is also the situation in Lituania. Hitler wanted the terror as a warning to leaders of other coveted states and provinces of what might happen to them if they stood out against absorption

Listen, World!

The Quiet Meadow.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BELOW my camp in the mountains, there is a little meadow. One comes upon it unexpectedly, at a turn in the trail. The trails are dusty and rocky, thick with thorny bush. They are work trails. They belong to everyday life. They belong with digging ditches and building dams and raising corn and herding cattle. They are... Then suddenly, while their hot rocks are still galling one's heel, and their dust is bitter on the lip, one comes upon this lovely, open space within its wall of trees. It is very quiet in the little meadow. The deep grass ripples gently... silvery blue... then dark as smoky jade. There is clover in the grass, and buttercups and tall blue iris. And, in the fall, a yellow weed that smells like cinnamon. Always fragrance rises from the meadow, rises and falls in faint tides, as though the soil were breathing. Butterflies flutter above the flowers in lemon and lavender swarms. Sometimes they come so thickly that they weave a twinkling, iridescent veil. Larks nest in the grass, and quail, and tiny, furry mice. And always, there is the tinkle and chuckle of a little stream, and, if you listen, you can hear drowned bells beneath the murmuring water. And, quite apart from all this, there is the light. The light is never the same at any two hours. Early in the morning it lies in fragile filaments, a film of silver, clinging to the grass like a wet cobweb. At noon it glows like burnished copper. There is an hour in the afternoon when the light thickens and gathers until the meadow becomes an amber pool, darkly ruddy as the water beneath the alder roots. With twilight, the gold changes into rose... fluid rose, bright as claret. And there is a wonderful moment, which you cannot always catch, when the light will stream suddenly through the tree trunks in great shafts of glory... like that glory which streams through jeweled cathedral windows... and the perfume of the flowers goes up like altar incense. Sometimes at that moment, a vesper thrush will sing—a strange, sweet cry—over and over—as though one, singing, sobbing, told the rosary. Then the moment passes, and the bowl is filled with shadows that deepen from azure into violet. And presently, deep in the violet, there swing the stars. All day the light comes and goes across the meadow— Comes and goes like thought— Like the mysterious passage of many thoughts... some dark, some light... some blazing with hot desire... some wistful with dreams which have no words. Indeed, so quiet, so set apart is my meadow that it seems a secret place of the mind, rather than a plot of earth. I have often thought, coming down the dusty trail from my work—

Coming suddenly into this quiet haven—

That every mind should have a gentle place like this, where the soul may rest... a quiet place, filled with songs and shafts of glory... and peace... and open to the stars. (Copyright, 1939)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The other day while having my locks trimmed in one of the Rockefeller Center shops I asked the cutter: "Were you listening in on Orsen Welles' broadcast the other night?" "No, I wasn't," he said, "but I wish I had. All the boys are talking about it." This was the broadcast in which Welles and his cast gave a dramatization of "Beau Geste," a blood and thunder tale of the French Foreign Legion. As soon as it was over Welles introduced an ex-legionnaire to his listeners and plied him with a few questions. "I know it isn't proper to ask a man why he joined the Legion," began Welles apologetically, "but could I ask that of you?" "Sure," replied the fellow, "I was a 16-year-old kid living in Alsace and I craved excitement. I had five years of it in the Legion." "Then what did you do?" Welles wanted to know. "I became a barber in Rockefeller Center."

This was the incident we had in mind, and when I began looking around, hoping to see him, my barber said: "He isn't in this shop. This is the International building. He's over in the RCA building and he's on the first chair. He had a swell time. They paid him a hundred dollars."

YOU never know whom you'll encounter in New York, but this much is certain; very often it will be the last person in the world you expect to see. We had dropped into the Revere Room at the Lexington, a duck fancier and myself, about 10 o'clock in the evening. This man has a place in Connecticut and on it he has a varied assortment of ducks. He was telling about them. All about the room were little knots of people, and they were talking too—maybe they were talking about ducks. After a while we noticed a man with two companions sitting in a corner next to the hat check concession. He seemed vaguely familiar. He was very friendly and very earnest, dressed in a conservative brown suit with a brown striped tie, and talking steadily to his companions. Words began to drift our way and eventually it became clear that he was talking about handbills and letting people know about a meeting he was going to hold. And then we recognized him—Dr. Townsend, planning a campaign to further his pension scheme. But it wasn't the sudden realization of his identity, or even the talk of handbills that startled you. It was seeing a waiter place before him some imported sherry. What would those California wine growers think of you, Doctor, if they knew you were asking for imported sherry.

EVERY now and then you run into someone who craves the stage or the spotlight irrespective of wealth or monetary reward. It isn't the money that counts—it's doing something they've always wanted to do. Such a situation exists right here in New York—at a nightclub on the east side. We were in there a little while the other night and suddenly a young man got up to sing. "See that fellow," someone told us. "I don't know what they pay him—it can't be much, because he isn't well known. "But money doesn't mean a thing to him. He would work for nothing if he had to. He's a millionaire. He could buy out 30 clubs like this. He's Dick Smart. He owns the Parker ranch in Hawaii."

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR "Sh-sh!" the nurse cautioned. "You must be quiet—" "The net!" Jim cried out then, in a voice so loud and harsh that Lona jumped. "He's going through the net! Stop him, for God's sake! Can't you stop him! That net's no good! It's been weakened—" He was raving again. Lona looked at the nurse, a question in her eyes. The nurse lifted a warning finger. "It's his head," she whispered. "We rather expected it. But it's nothing to worry about. He'll come out of it." She smiled reassuringly. "But he—he looks so strange! Are you sure it's all right?" "There's nothing to be alarmed about. If you'll just go on out, I'll have him quiet in a few minutes. He's had another hyodermic. He may be rational when he comes out of that. Now, if you'll please go out." She was gently easing Lona toward the door.

Their whispered conflict seemed to communicate itself to Jim's wandering consciousness. "The net!" he cried out again, struggling to sit up in bed. "He'll go through the net, I tell you! Stop him... For God's sake, stop him! It's murder, can't you understand? It's MURDER..."

Murder! The word hit on Lona's mind like the impact of a bomb. She staggered before it, and allowed the nurse to shoo her, unresisting, back out into the corridor. For a long moment she stood there when the door had closed behind her, softening that rasping, unfamiliar voice... Murder! So that was it. That was the thing that was haunting Jim—the thing she had to face. For the second time in her life—murder!

OUTSIDE JIM'S door at the hospital, with his delicious cry of "Murder!" still ringing in her ears, Lona felt an impulse to run that almost overcame her. She felt as if she could go down the corridor and out into the street and vanish forever, away from everything... Jim brown-eyed Jim, with his drawling, "Gill" and his almost fierce understanding of her troubles... Jim, in whom she had felt so secure—to find him connected with murder!

"The net! He'll go through it, I tell you! It's murder..." Through the closed door the heavy voice sounded again, and putting her hands to her ears, she lurched down the hall. Without leaving word where she was going, she passed on out into the street. What to do next was the problem that confronted her, as she struck out blindly through the misty September morning. She looked about her almost calmly at the bustle of the kindly little town she had grown, in so short a time, to consider as home, and a rebel.

lions lump rose in her throat. Why did things have to happen like this, she asked herself, beating her wings against her fate like a caged bird beats against its bars. She was a convict's daughter. Wasn't that sufficient? Did she have to be a convict's wife? "No, oh, no!" She cried out aloud as the thought brought a picture of Jim flashing before her eyes. Jim, with his kindness and his gentleness, shut away from her, behind those grim bars, as daddy had been. She couldn't allow that to happen! Suddenly, as she tramped on, her shocked mind seemed to clear itself, and she knew that nothing really mattered but Jim's safety. She must protect him, somehow. That was the big thing. She must manage to keep people away from him until he was better—people who might suspect. And as soon as he was able to travel they must slip away from Brighton, well as she loved it. Move on. Two weeks, the detective had said in the letter he'd sent to Clark Martin. He would be back in two weeks! She must lay her plans carefully.

True to Dinah's predictions, the Brighton News carried the story of Jim's accident blazoned across its headlines that evening. Opening the hospital's copy with trembling hands, Lona scanned it fearfully. Would there be a picture? She had learned so much of the ways of newspapers and their reporters that she was prepared for anything. It would not have surprised her if the very picture that had caused them to come to Brighton were not raked out of the files and printed again. She dreaded to look.

Her fears, however, were groundless. There were no pictures of her nor of Jim, and Mrs. Morris had evidently plied her reporter friend with so many facts that he had felt no necessity of going into personalities too deeply. "Bridge Worker Saves Comrade. Plunges Into Water" the story was headed. A vivid account of the accident followed with Jim's heroism played up in glowing terms. Reading it, Lona felt the tension in her tired mind lessening. Nothing which might make people wonder about them was included. Instead of the tell-tale pictures she had feared, there was only a snapshot of the worker Jim had saved. Beneath it, and half way down the page, was another shot of the spidery, half-completed span of the new bridge. "Accident Recalls Famous Colorado Experiment," the bridge picture was captioned and, under that lead, the reporter had taken his one flight into the reminiscence Lona had been dreading. It was an impersonal enough article, but she caught her breath as her eyes followed the black lines that seemed, all at once, to leap out at her.

"We Democrats," he said, "have honest convictions, but we clash in these convictions. The Republicans never clash in campaign time. All they want to do is to break into office. They don't care whether they climb in through the cellar window or scale a drainpipe and enter by way of the attic. Once inside they may quarrel over the loot, but they're a unit in committing burglary. Our Democratic squabbling's done in advance—which is why they beat us on election days." Nevertheless, Garner kept his split minority in pretty good order. In those days Garner's minority was a trifle too minus to be pleasant. Yet a majority, if overly preponderant, has a tendency to divide itself. The Republicans showed that trend. The talk was to the effect that an excessive majority was undesirable. As a newspaperman I dropped in on Leader Garner to ask for information. He listened and then he said reflectively: "Do you know, I'd rather have a topheavy majority." He's funny that way.

A Farmer's Diary

Not On Relief.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AS I drove to town, one blustery morning, I saw a woman walk to the end of a country lane, and wait. Her face was red from the biting wind, and she carried a basket in her hand. I stopped. "Now wasn't I lucky!" she exclaimed. "I just this minute got to the road and here I get a ride! My husband had a flat tire, and I couldn't wait for him to fix it. I have to be at work at 8 o'clock." "Do you live on a farm?" I asked. "Yes, we do. It's 65 acres. We bought it three years ago. We've got five children, the oldest nine. My husband worked in the steel mill, but he fell, painting a neighbor's barn and got hurt, so he didn't get any compensation. That was tough, and now he's crippled for the rest of his life. That's tougher yet! He can do almost everything on a farm, though. "You see, when the Mister got hurt, I took care of an old man who had no folks, and when he died he left me a little something. We bought the farm with that." "How did you get along before you had the farm?" I asked. "We didn't want to, but we just had to go on relief for a few years. Some of our neighbors who were on relief, and are yet, wondered why we'd be so foolish as to buy a farm and work so hard. They said they'd keep quiet and stay in town, on relief. But we got along. I do cleaning and odd jobs in town three days a week, and my man keeps the children. We feel more independent. Why, since we come out here, we've ain't had to get help from anybody! The children ain't dressed so well, maybe, but we all like it lots better."

"Where do they go to school?" "Two of them ride the bus to the village of L—" (I found my own boy was in the same class as their second child.) I took her through town to the house where she worked. As she got out, the lid to her ample basket was partly blown off by a gust of wind and I saw several dozen bunches of fresh saffra root bark.

"I sell these on the way back home," she said, in answer to my questioning look.

workers ever be developed? The question raised anew by yesterday's accident on the Brightridge. Various safety devices have been tried in this most hazardous line of work without success. The most famous failure of this line occurred some five years ago on the now completed more bridge across the Colorado river at Wetmore, Colo. A safety net was developed at the time by James Rankin, the assistant engineer in charge of the bridge. The net was given publicity in the trade journal and a test was arranged with representative of a large manufacturing company present. One of the bridge workers, a friend of Rankin's, volunteered to jump from the top span while Rankin manipulated the net. The force of the jump sent the experimenter through the net and into the water below. Because of the entangling meshes, it was impossible to reach him and he drowned. Rankin, who claimed his invention had been tampered with, disappeared after making a statement to that effect. Upon examination it was found the net had purposely weakened. Further investigation uncovered friction between the victim and Rankin's ownership of the pending patent. For his part in the much publicized experiment, the victim demanded a share of future profits, an arrangement to which Rankin eventually objected. Subsequently a suit against Rankin was entered by the dead man's heirs, but the patent on the net, as if it bothered him. It's odd how he keeps on that one subject. You wouldn't know why, I suppose?"

She was looking at the paper as she spoke and Lona's heart jumped. The nurse's eye was traveling down toward that picture and its story. In another moment she would see it. Would she grasp the significance?

"There's something I'd like you and the doctor to do for me," Lona burst out, desperately, and the nurse raised her eyes from the paper, struck by her altered tone. "It's about this—this delirium of Jim's. You see, Jim is rather sensitive. He'd hate to have anyone know he was out of his head. He thinks it's sort of a disgrace, somehow. I'm wondering if you'll keep everybody away from him until he's normal again. Just you and the doctor and myself, of course. He'd hate for anybody else to know—" She broke off, conscious that her explanation was lame.

But the nurse smiled indulgently. "You mustn't worry about that, Mrs. Bennett," she soothed. "Of course we're keeping everybody out. We've even shooed you away when you'd stand for it," she laughed.

"Jim would particularly hate for the men at the bridge to know he's raving," Lona stumbled on. "There is a Mr. Martin, the engineer, who comes to see him. You mustn't let him in."

"Why, my dear, of course he won't get in. Are—are you sure you're not a little feverish yourself? You mustn't let this get you down. We'll take care of Jim. You mustn't worry so much. You're like a fond grandmother..." She laughed again, and patted Lona's shoulder.

"We've only been married a few weeks," Lona blurted out then. "I guess I'm not used to—having things happen—"

"Why, you're only a bride. How thrilling! No wonder you're fussy." The woman put her arm about Lona's shoulders and turned her back down the corridor toward Jim's room.

"You'll have to get used to accidents if you're married to a man who insists upon working on bridges," she banted, and Lona managed a weak smile.

"It's just hearing him rave that sort of—gets me," she managed to observe, and tried to hide the shrinking that came over her as they approached Jim's door, and the hoarse murmur of his voice sounded from inside.

"The net!... The net!" he was crying as they entered, and Lona's heart went sick within her. She MUST keep people away from him. Nobody must hear, least of all Engineer Martin, and Dinah.

ARMY TO TEST CRACK PLANES IN WAR GAMES

Fliers Rush to Defend Gulf States Against Attack of Theoretical Enemy.

SHREVEPORT, La.—(AP)—The army will rush to the defense of the Gulf coast in May, repelling a theoretical enemy that slipped through the fleet on guard in the Caribbean sea.

The land defenders, however, will be theoretical, as well as the fleet off the coast. The Third Wing of the Army Air corp, with peacetime headquarters at Barksdale field, will be on the "spot."

The Third Wing maneuvers will last two weeks, from May 6 to May 20.

All details are secret. Only Gen. Frederick L. Martin, Third Wing commander, and Capt. W. W. Messmore, the general's adjutant, and the army public relations group knows when the army will be called out, where the theoretical enemy will attack or the defense plans.

The Third Wing may get an order to assist the First Wing, which will be aiding the First Army maneuvers at Biloxi, Miss., earlier in the month. The first inkling of the plans will crackle over the radio. No preparation will be made for the Third Wing participation, the idea being to test the practicability of calling on the air force and seeing what can be done in an emergency.

The Sixth Air Base, which is the ground and maintenance force of Barksdale field, will begin establishing camps at Houston, Temple, Waco, Austin, Beaumont and Galveston, all Texas points, about the last week in April. Approximately 60 men and officers will establish the posts, arrange for supplies and smooth out the details for the arrival of the fliers. Four men and an officer will remain on duty at each post until maneuvers are ended.

Fifteen air corps officers, one ordnance officer, one flight surgeon, 122 enlisted men, three A-17a planes, one BC (basic combat) plane and three B-18 planes will be stationed at Houston's municipal airport, headquarters of the Third Wing during maneuvers.

These planes will be used by observing officers, and one, fitted up for Gen. Martin as an office, is equipped with the best radio equipment possessed by the army communications branch.

Also at Houston, at another field, will be the 55th pursuit group, with 16 officers, 80 men, 19 P-36's (the newest pursuit planes) and one B-10 (bomber).

HONOR STUDENT COLLECTS DOLLS

Starts Hobby Because of Friendship With Manufacturer.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(AP)—Doll collecting is the odd hobby of Leon Brachman, Harvard freshman from Marietta, U. S. who also is an honor student, stamp collector, boxer and violinist with the college symphony orchestra.

Alvin Gallant of Lawrence, N. Y., who revealed Brachman's hobby, says there is no privacy in their college rooms because dolls on shelves, the mantel piece and desks, stare at him.

Brachman said the collection was started because of an interest in doll manufacture in connection with his economic studies.

EIFFEL TOWER ENDURES TIME FOR 50 YEARS

Marvel of Engineering in Paris Has Been Visited by 18 Million.

PARIS—(U.P.)—The Eiffel tower, which was derided by architects as a monstrosity at the time it was built has since become the outstanding landmark of Paris, celebrates its 50th anniversary today.

On March 31, 1889, it was opened to the public as the chief attraction of the Universal Exposition. The work of Jean Eiffel, noted engineer who later had the misfortune to be involved in the Panama scandal, it was designed to demonstrate practically the use of steel for tall structures.

Engineers predicted that it would buckle or topple over by breaking loose from its foundations, but Eiffel's confidence in its solidity has been more than vindicated in the past 50 years. The fact that the tower resisted wind and time did much to prove to the world the practicability of skyscrapers. Ironically enough, France never built any but allowed the United States to be the chief beneficiary of Eiffel's engineering genius.

The tower probably has been the most frequented point of attraction to tourists in the world during its half-century of existence. More than 18,000,000 people have viewed Paris from its topmost platform since it was built.

Serves Many Uses.

Besides being a vantage point from which to view the city, the tower has had many uses. It has been used as an advertising sign for an automobile company; a gigantic thermometer in electric lights was built up one side, and it has also served as a clock. At various levels are a restaurant, a radio station, a meteorological observation post and an experimental laboratory for television.

Formal observance of the tower's 50th birthday will take place during the summer. On the Fourth of July it is planned to broadcast a "message of friendship" from the top of the tower to the Statue of Liberty, the iron skeleton of which also was designed by Eiffel. There will be a retrospective display of documents and photographs dealing with the tower on one of the platforms.

SANDUSKY FIRE LOSS 2 MILLION

Two Business Blocks Razed by Flames; Falling Walls Menace Huge Crowd.

The fire spread about 6 a. m. to a second block in which frame business structures and dwellings are located.

The firemen, augmented by scores of volunteer citizens, divided ranks in an effort to extinguish flames on the new front while attempting to save buildings still untouched in the first block.

Bravard estimated that at least 20 families fled from apartments subsequently demolished. Men, women and children dashed from the buildings, most of them only partially clothed.

The fire broke out in the N. R. Berg company department store, the city's largest retail establishment, located on East Market street, Sandusky's principal east-west business artery. A night patrolman discovered the blaze and turned in the alarm at 4 a. m.

The flames spread rapidly through the four-story brick building as all of the city's firemen and apparatus fought desperately.

Spreads to Women's Store.

Eating through walls, the blaze spread to the adjoining building occupied by Frankel's Women's Apparel Shop. The fire moved eastward along East Market street to McClelland's variety store, Cohn's women's and children's clothing store and the Sears-Roebuck building.

The fire-fighters succeeded in protecting store buildings fronting on Columbus avenue, the main business street, bordering the ill-fated block on the west.

From the back of the department store, embers ignited buildings facing East Water street. The largest of these, which were gutted despite their limestone construction, was occupied by the E. B. Ackley wholesale tobacco firm.

WIN PAROLES

2 Richland Men, 3 From Nearby Counties to Leave O. S. R.

Two Richland county inmates and three from nearby counties were among the 104 at the Ohio State reformatory to be granted paroles today by the Ohio board of parole, dispatches from Columbus said. The board conditionally released six and continued the cases of 54 others.

The Richland county inmates are Paul Rhodes, 19, who will be paroled May 1, and Vaughn W. Watkins, 18, to be released May 5. Rhodes was sentenced to the reformatory March 29, 1938, to serve from one to 15 years on a charge of breaking and entering. Watkins, serving a one to 20 year sentence for operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, was committed on May 9, 1938.

The two Knox county inmates are Edward Witkus, 23, and Joe Marshall, 26. Both are to be released June 1, Witkus to go to Pennsylvania.

A Crawford county inmate, Charles Sheperd, 24, is to be conditionally released to Crawford county April 20. If not wanted he will be paroled May 20.

EX-SHELBY MAN FACES CHARGES

Raymond Evans, 26, Returned to Indiana After Arrest; Held for Robberies.

SHELBY—Raymond Evans, 26, former Shelby resident, is being held at Decatur, Ind., on charges of robbery, Shelby police learned today. Evans was arrested with five other members of a gang that has reportedly confessed to over 50 crimes arranging from pilfering of postoffices to attempted bank holdups in Indiana and Ohio.

Evans was arrested in Crestline Saturday by Crestline authorities following an investigation of his whereabouts conducted by the Shelby police headed by Police Chief Leroy Coffey. A radio report had been received earlier Saturday by Shelby police from Indiana authorities, asking for them to arrest Evans.

Evans resided in Shelby several years ago when he was employed by the Ohio Seamless Tube company, police said. He attended the Shelby schools and left Shelby two years ago to go to Decatur where his parents now reside.

Evans returned to Crestline last February from Decatur, where he was apprehended Saturday by Crestline authorities. Evans was taken back to Indiana for trial this week by State Officer Russell Prior of the Indiana state police and Police Chief James Borders of Decatur.

STATE DUCKS ON SCHOOL MERGER

Robinson Told Action in Rural Wrangle Will Be Up to County Board.

Action providing for the merging of the rural districts, however, will be left with the county board which has pondered the problem for more than two years, Dietrich said.

The state director had little comment to make on the Richland county situation, preferring to wait until after a survey of the districts has been made, Robinson said. Dietrich repeated his warning that the Adario high school will be closed.

Proposed merging of the Butler and Bloomington township districts with the Union rural district as an economy move has been balked repeatedly by protests from Butler township school officials and parents who want to keep their school at Adario.

Dispelling a widespread belief that the South Boulevards district will have to provide its own school when it incorporates soon, Dietrich said yesterday that the school set-up in that area may continue as it is until the tax valuation passes the $500,000 mark.

The ruling was given to R. K. Clark, treasurer of the South Boulevards Property Holders association, who went to Columbus with Supt. Robinson.

Clark said a number of residents of the South Boulevards district understood that a new school district would have to be set up when the village of South Boulevards is formed. Pupils in the community now attend school at Woodville and Madison high.

Present property valuation in the district is $440,000, and when it passes $500,000 a solution may be found in the dissolution of the South Boulevards school district and merging it with Madison township schools, Clark said.

HONOR CHAPTER

750 Attend Services for Shelby Debate Team.

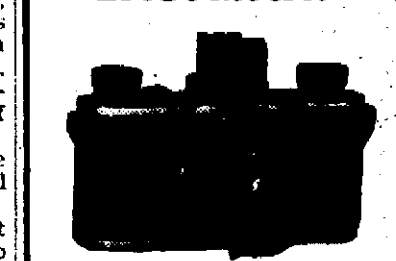

SHELBY — The second annual recognition service for the Shelby chapter of the National Forensic league was held Thursday at the high school auditorium with 750 members of the high school faculty and student body as guests of the chapter.

A history of activities of the chapter this year was given at the meeting by Miss Eleanor Wentz, chapter president. During the past year, Miss Wentz disclosed, Shelby's debate team won 16 out of 30 debate matches, while the declamation contestants placed fourth in five meets. The Shelby chapter, Miss Wentz pointed out, ranks first among the two-year chapters of the national organization. Seven Shelby members have received special recognition in the league by earning four degrees which is the highest number of degrees available as awards of achievement and for participation in the league's activities. They are Director C. M. Schindler, Robert Fralick, Ned Shreffler and the Misses Wentz, Marjorie Swanger, Jeannette Dowds and Alice Flickinger.

Hitler's Shadow Now Falls Across Poland's Port

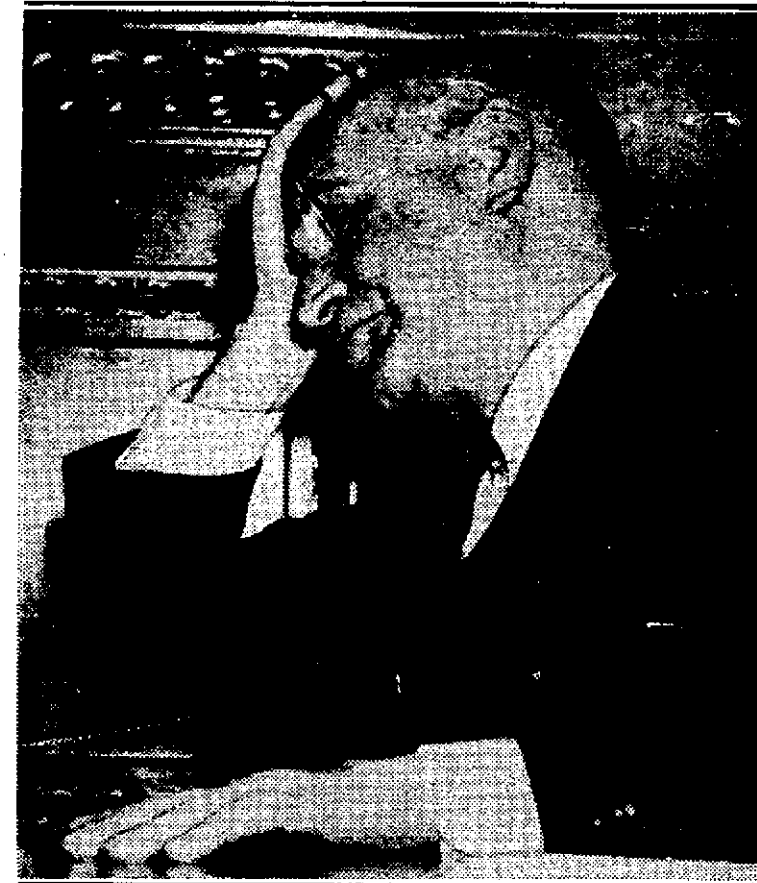

Harbor of Gdynia

The focal point of Europe's next crisis may be this thriving, modern seaport, Gdynia, which is in the Polish corridor. The industrious Poles have built this new, planned port into a bustling community of 120,000. If Chancellor Hitler attempts to annex the Polish Corridor and the free city of Danzig to greater Germany, Poles fear their city may also be seized.

Letters Assailing Douglas Delay O. K. on Court Post

SENATOR GETS PROTEST OVER MAG ARTICLESCharge Court Appointee First Praised Exchange, Then Condemned Practices.

BACKGROUND
President Roosevelt's nomination of Sen. William O. Douglas to the supreme court was a popular one with congress. Without a hitch it was sent to the senate committee and full committee approval. It has been on the senate executive calendar ready for confirmation for two days.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Two letters written to Senator Frazier (R.) of North Dakota, today delayed senate confirmation of the supreme court nomination of securities and exchange commission Chairman William O. Douglas.

The letters charged that before Douglas was mentioned as a leading candidate for the court vacancy, he praised the New York Stock Exchange in magazine articles, and that afterwards, he changed his attitude and bitterly assailed exchange practices.

Frazier will examine the letters today and if he finds any basis for the charges, will report his conclusions to the senate.

"I do not know whether there is anything in the charges," he told International News Service. "But if they are true, there must be some politics involved somewhere. If I find they are well based after reading the articles, I shall elaborate upon them in the senate."

Blocks Quick Action.

Frazier's objections blocked immediate action on the Douglas appointment the first time it came up in the senate, despite insistence of Senate Majority Leader Barkley that action be taken. Frazier said he did not expect to prevent confirmation, but felt that such charges as were lodged with him should at least be investigated.

Barkley will press for confirmation of the appointment late today, before the senate recesses for the week-end. On Monday the court will take a two-weeks' recess.

"I have two communications," Frazier explained. "They refer to magazine articles of Mr. Douglas, especially in connection with the New York Stock Exchange. They say he was very favorable to the exchange for some time, and had something to do with election of the present exchange president. Then, the letters say, after Mr. Douglas' name was put forward as a leading court candidate, he changed his tactics and wrote articles criticizing the exchange."

Douglas will fill the court vacancy resulting from retirement of the 82-year-old liberal, Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis. There was no opposition to his confirmation when a senate judiciary subcommittee considered his name, nor when the full committee approved him. The Douglas nomination was sent to the senate by President Roosevelt March 20.

Students At Kent Protest Slash In University Budget

KENT, O.—Classes at Kent State university here were suspended for two hours today while the 2,400 students met in a special assembly to protest the proposed $478,000 reduction in the university's budget for 1939 and 1940.

A one-day student "strike" which had been planned as a gesture of protest was abandoned in favor of the assembly. Students were requested to write letters to their parents and state representatives and senators of their home districts.

The university student council considered the advisability of sending a delegation to Columbus to deliver the protest personally to Governor John W. Bricker.

President K. C. Leebrecht told the students that Kent State is the fastest-growing state-supported university, yet received the largest cut in the budget recommendations of the governor.

Physician Restores Heart Action
After Beats Once Stopped.

BELLEFONTAINE, (AP)—Dr. Edward G. Moench reported today that heart action of Howard Scullin, 60-year-old Belle Center laborer and former fire chief, was restored yesterday after it had ceased.

Dr. Moench said Scullin had been weakened by an attack of influenza and suffered a relapse. Scullin was in "fair" condition today.

GIVES UP EMBASSY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spanish Ambassador Fernando de Los Rios turned his embassy over to Colombian Ambassador Lopez Pomarejo today, to be held until the United States recognizes the Franco government in Spain.

Up and Down

Fathers of members of the Y. M. C. A. Junior Rifle club will have to take their hats off to their sons when it comes to target shooting. A match between the dads and sons, whose ages range from 10 to 12, was held at the Y indoor range the other day and, although the fathers' team included a number of crack marksmen, the juniors won the rifle bout by five points. The fathers who competed were I. L. Bronson, R. M. Campbell, Harold Dysart, C. C. McDonald and Harold Goetz.

That inscription on the cornerstone of the courthouse has been there for 69 years, but a number of county employees just became interested today in finding out what it means. They couldn't find anyone in the building able to interpret the "A. L. 5,870" inscribed on the right side of the stone opposite the A. D. 1870, showing the date the building was erected. The "investigation" started when an outsider inquired about the mysterious letters and figures.

Better get your papers and magazines bundled up "against" April 5 when the Junior Red Cross will stage a campaign for papers, magazines and old tires. The youngsters want to send two delegates to the national conference of Red Cross at Washington, D. C., the latter part of April and are going to work for the money. Ruth Meisel, president of the Red Cross council at Senior High, and members of the junior committee are in charge of the campaign. Any one with papers to dispose of may call the Red Cross, Canal 1494, and a car will be sent for them.

It is a little unusual for a person to suffer from homesickness after 67 years away from their native land, but Mrs. Mary Remy, 124 East Second street (mother of City Detective Lee Remy), admits that she felt that way yesterday when she read the story in The News-Journal of the antique silver cup which had been presented to the Ohio Public Service company by H. Towers of London. The cup, made in 1765, has a "sister" dish in St. Maryn, Cornwall, England. Mrs. Remy was born at Moorswary, Cornwall, about five miles from St. Maryn and has been in the village many times, passing the church where the silver alms dish is kept. Mrs. Remy came to Mansfield in 1872 when her father came here as a stonemason on the county courthouse.

DUE ON MONDAY

Arrival of C. of C. Secretary Delayed by Death in Family.

John G. Routzon of Lancaster, newly appointed secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, who was to have assumed his duties here tomorrow, will not arrive until Monday, it was announced today.

Robert M. Miller, acting secretary-manager, said he had been notified that there had been a death in the Routzon family at Ottawa, O., and that the new secretary's arrival will be delayed two days.

Routzon, secretary of the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce, was selected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Paul W. Williams who went to Dayton to become managing director of the Chamber of Commerce there.

2 SCHOOLS HOLD ARBOR EVENTSWoodland, Madison Observe Day; Trees and Shrubs Planted at Former.

Programs in recognition of Arbor day, being observed throughout the state today, were held this afternoon at the Woodland elementary and Madison high schools.

Each spring one day is set aside by the governor as Arbor day, on which pupils are to be given information concerning the value and interest of forests, the duty of the public to protect birds and trees and for the planting of forest trees.

At a program at 3 p. m. on the lawn of the Woodland school, 48 trees and four shrubs, donated by John Kullman, manager of Racemelon Farms, were planted on the school grounds. A talk on "Arbor Day" was given by Mrs. Merritt Giles, garden club representative. Miss Edith Stuckey, third grade teacher at the school, was in charge of the program.

The Madison program at 1:45 p. m. in the school auditorium, consisted of readings, a talk by Kenneth Nixon of the faculty, and music by the high school band.

Short readings and poems were given by six students. They were, Twila Williams, "Conservation of Our Wild Flowers"; Helen Getz, "Trees"; Bernice Wolf, "Conservation of Bird Life"; David Weinert, "Soil"; Eleanor Harrison, "Conservation of Water and Fish"; and Joe Subich, "Conservation of Forests."

Nixon told the students of his trip last summer through Yellowstone National park. Music included selections by the band, a vocal solo by James Weber, musical supervisor, and a vocal octet.

A tree planting program scheduled for this afternoon at Senior high school in observance of Arbor day, was postponed, according to Jesse Beer, principal.

New London Man Bound Over On Motor Vehicle Charge.

Everett Evedge, colored, of New London, arraigned in municipal court today on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent pleaded guilty and was bound over to the grand jury under $1,500 bond.

Evedge was arrested by New London police yesterday on a warrant signed by Detective Oscar Krupp. Evedge is accused of taking an automobile belonging to Earl Runyon, 458 1/2 Bowman street, Wednesday night and driving it to New London.

BROTHER DIES

William Long, Ex-Mansfielder, Stricken In California.

Henry Long received word today of the death of his brother, William Long, 87, former Mansfield man, at his home in McKetrick, Cal., which occurred yesterday after a three week's illness.

Mr. Long spent the greater part of his life in this city, leaving here about 30 years ago. He is survived by three children and nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held at Taft, Cal., tomorrow, and burial will be made there.

HOUSE BANS NUDISM IN OHIO IN FUN SESSION AT CAPITAL

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS—The Ohio house of representatives has made it clear how it stands on the practice of nudism in the presence of the opposite sex.

The legislators don't like it a little bit and said as much when they passed, 112 to 14, the Kellar bill making it an offense against society for persons to go about unclothed in the presence of the opposite sex.

Although a great majority of the house members agreed with Rep. Lawrence Kellar, R., Delaware, that this bill should pass, they refused to take it seriously and indulged in uproarious debate.

The bill came in for a barrage of sarcasm by Rep. William Bixler, D., Summit.

"We have finally reached the momentous question of this session—whether we are going to continue to allow the people of Ohio to run around naked," said Rep. Bixler.

"Some member ought to offer an amendment that no child can be born in Ohio without wearing pants."

Bixler suggested, however, that perhaps the bill should pass to lessen the possibility of airplane accidents that might be caused by pilots looking down on nudist camps as they flew over.

Kellar, in defending his bill, declared it struck at only one thing—"people going naked in mass groups."

"The only right taken away by this bill," he told the house, "is the right of a man to expose himself to another man's wife or daughter."

Spokesmen for nudist groups have described Kellar's bill as an invasion of their individual liberties. Kellar recommended its passage on the grounds that present statutes are not broad enough for communities which object to operation of nudist camps to deal with them satisfactorily.

The bill provides for penalties of a $200 fine or six months' imprisonment for violations.

LAFF-A-DAY

SENATE SENDS MEASURE BACK TO COMMITTEEControversial Bill Referred to Military Affairs Group; Report Due April 10.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—After bobbing around in the senate for three days, the highly explosive Pollock "red hunt" resolution today was shoved into the hands of the senate military affairs committee, thus delaying a showdown on it for at least 10 days.

Upon motion of Sen. Frank Whittemore, majority floor leader, the senate decided to turn over the controversial issue to the 11 committee members and have them report back their recommendations by April 10.

5-Member Committee.

Introduced by Sen. R. A. Pollock, (R-Canton), the resolution provides for appointment of a five-member senate committee, working under an unlimited expense account, to investigate asserted un-American and subversive activities at state-supported universities.

Charging that the resolution should be voted upon "now," Pollock took issue with Whittemore's successful motion and was one of six senators voting against the floor leader's proposal.

The resolution passed the senate Tuesday by a narrow 19-to-12 vote but, under pressure of Ohio State university alumni, this action was voided the next day and the measure came up for reconsideration.

Charged with conducting the delicate committee hearing will be Sen. Ray Palmer (R-Barnesville), chairman of the military affairs group. As chairman, Palmer has power to subpoena witnesses and have them testify under oath.

Thrust into the senatorial limelight for the first time, the diminutive Belmont county, who is serving his initial term in the legislature, said he would open hearings as soon as he could father a list of witnesses.

Composed of nine Republicans and two Democrats, the committee personnel follows:

ILL WEEK, DIES

Jacob Kettering, 67, Was Son of Ashland Pioneers.

LOUDONVILLE—Jacob M. Kettering, 67, died at his home on East Washington street yesterday after a week's illness with pneumonia.

He was the son of Adam and Ellen Kettering, Ashland county pioneers, and was born Aug. 14, 1871.

Surviving are his wife, a son, Earl Kettering of Dayton; a brother, John, also of Dayton, and a sister, Mrs. Glenn Thompson of Wilverly, O.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Baptist church with Rev. David Ralbach, officiating. The Knights of Pythias will assist, and burial will be in the Loudonville cemetery.

The body will remain at the Swank funeral home until early Sunday when it will be taken to the home until the time of services.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Dies Can Blame Himself
If Reporters Treat His Inquiry With Contempt

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—For the first time in the long and sometimes acrimonious attempt of the present government to discredit, if not destroy, the American press, the conduct of reporters has been called into question, the accuser being Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities.

Hitherto only the publishers have been accused, generally on a charge of distortion, suppression or false emphasis, in the interests of their political beliefs and of the advertisers from whom they receive part of their income. Dies distinctly says that not all the reporters who covered his committee were guilty of the conduct or attitude of which he complains in some.

But he frankly resents jeers, sneers and audible contemptuous comments on the part of individuals from whom newspaper readers received accounts and impressions of the hearings. He says some reporters revealed hostility in a manner that amounted to heckling of witnesses who testified as to activities of Communists and "fellow travelers," and even of the committee itself.

Washington reporters covering committee hearings enjoy privileges beyond those of reporters in the courts, but the chair always has authority to enforce order and protect witnesses. Thus Dies, by his complaint, adds weight to the charge that he did not conduct his hearings in a competent manner.

In failing to preserve order, even at the necessity of ejecting individuals from the room, he sacrificed decorum to avoid even more bitter newspaper comment.

He would have been fiercely ridiculed for doing this, but, on the other hand, he certainly would have won respect, for, if his own accounts of certain incidents are not exaggerated, the committee was held in contempt and made to like it.

This failure is the more important because of Dies' resentful feeling that his committee did get a very bad and unfair press in some respects.

The Shirley Temple distortion

Some approached the story with the conviction that it was a farce and were embarrassed to discover that the country thought otherwise and wouldn't be satisfied with light or heavy attempts at humor, which, incidentally, is not a specialty of Washington journalism.

Dies, however, studied his subject and his mistakes of procedure and is now more confident of himself and more determined than ever.

If next time he should find the nerve to eject disturbers who abuse their press privileges to hamper the work of a congressional committee, objective reporters among the many will have no choice but to give honest accounts of incidents.

Speaks—

HOLLYWOOD—Today's song of Unstinted Admiration is dedicated to a little woman who isn't "important" any more.

Unless you were a movie fan eight or ten years ago, you won't even recognize her name. It's Evelyn Brent. Remember?

I saw her walking across the RKO lot the other day, and a lot of other people saw her too, but nobody looked twice. People look twice only at "important" people.

Stardust gets in the eyes, and they don't see gameness when it walks by in a plain gray suit and plain hat with its chin high. That was Brent—Betty Brent, as her friends call her.

Ten years ago I drove out to see Betty for the first time. She lived at Malibu then, in a big house right on the sand, a big house where Hollywood trooped in and out, paying homage to success.

One day it ended. She wasn't a star any longer. She was broke. She had thought everything was safe. It wasn't. She had to start all over again, just as if she hadn't had a heart-breaking tough time getting to the top. She went on "personal appearance" tours, she made her own way, she kept her chin up.

It's not a new story. What makes it different is that Betty Brent, with every human right to be bitter and sour, isn't. She's doing a picture again. She has a better part in "Second Shot" than she's had in years. Dance hall entertainer, tougher than tough, a real "character"—the sort of hard-boiled femme she did so well in "Underworld" and her other hits. It may mean bigger things, it may not.

She's talking today in a little canvas shack of a dressing room on the set. Once she had a room in Star Row, but she herself is no more conscious of surroundings than she was then. A queen doesn't need a palace.

"Bitter?" she laughs. "Why should I be? I'm happier now than I ever was. I'm not sorry for anything that happened. Once I had things, now I haven't—and that's all. It's true, I know, but the simple things are best.

Wife Starves
For Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: "Not by bread alone," I often say to myself when my husband laughs at me or turns me down when I crave a word of appreciation or affection.

"I have food, shelter, clothes, and the responsibilities of a wife and a mother of three children—but never a word of tenderness or a bit of love-making. I am not yet 30, and I want love, appreciation, something more than bed, board and materialism.

"When I turn on the radio to hear a love story or a bit of stage love-making, my husband roars with laughter at me. If strangers are present, he says, 'That woman is a romance hound.' Perhaps I am.

"Several men have tried to make up to me for my husband's callous indifference, but I've always remembered the home and the children.

"Will I always remember them? I wonder.

"STARVED WIFE." It's too much to hope for, I suppose, that the husband might see this wife's letter. But how about all the other husbands who let their wives starve for an affectionate look or word of cheer? Do such men realize how short-sighted is this policy?

"You'd think a little compliment was a diamond," as a bride of a year wrote me. Every man knows or at least should know that appreciation and a little petting now and then go a long way toward keeping a woman happy. Yet, when the honeymoon is over, the average man packs up his courting technique and forgets it.

My Neighbor Says:

Cyclamens must have perfect drainage. They need plenty of water, but must never sit in water. Once in two weeks feed them a quarter of a cup of manure water. Give plenty of light and keep in a cool window.

Before beating furniture or mattresses dampen an old bath towel or sheet, spread over furniture to be dusted, then beat. Treated in this way all dust may be removed and will not settle on nearby furniture.

Start tuberous-rooted begonias now in the house. Plant shallow in small pots later changing to larger pots when leaves are well grown. When weather is warm put in a shaded spot, such as ferns thrive in and they will bloom all summer.

Etiquette

By

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

It is an interesting game to watch yourself for a week to see how many times you let graciousness, kindness, shine out of you, and how many times it is your inclination to be ungracious, thoughtless, even downright impolite.

If we are ungracious people, we jerk our lives along. There is nothing smooth or graceful about us. We are niggardly with our "Please" when we ask anyone to do something for us. We heard our "Thank you" as if it were the most difficult and costly thing in the world.

Then there is the other choice... being gracious and smiling instead of grumping. Making life fair to other people. Oiling the way of life with a pleasant and polite "Please" to anyone who serves us, whether someone in our own home or in a public place. Quick and easy and natural with an appreciative "Thank you" to anyone who has served us in any capacity... a friend or a servant or a stranger who has been kind.

Eight or ten rinsings are necessary for washing spinach, since it grows close to the soil and is usually quite sandy. Alternate it between two large kettles of water, changing the water each time. The grit will remain in the bottom of the kettles.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

By ADELE GARRISON

"Right you are, Mother dear," I said to my mother-in-law, "and five can pick more quickly than two."

"What do you mean?" she asked quickly. "I thought we were to have the garden to ourselves. You promised."

"To tell you all about my interview with Queen Olga," I said, making the "mental reservation" that there were some things I could not reveal to her. "But I can do that in the secluded rose garden better than anywhere else. And you know very well that if I don't set the boys to work somewhere else, they will be all ears as close to us as they can get."

"But you can't trust them in the perennial beds," she said shocked. "They probably could pick the annuals all right, but they'd trample on some of your choice plants."

"They won't get the chance," I told her serenely. "I'm going to send them into those clumps of tall wild asters at the end of the field yonder. Those blue asters will be perfectly stunning against some of the first turning dogwood and swamp maple leaves that Jim can get for me later. Just now I'll put Jim at the perennial garden. We can help him out when we get through picking the roses."

"That seems a pretty good scheme," she conceded, "except—do you think it safe to let the children go so far from the house, with all this business about criminals watching their chance to kidnap or murder the queen and her daughter?"

"It really is but a step from the house," I explained patiently. "and look! there's a guard right in front of the flowers. They couldn't be safer."

"No, I suppose they couldn't," she reluctantly admitted. "You decided just in time. Here they come now."

Roderick and Junior were indeed racing toward us, and flung themselves upon me with impetuous "bear hugs" as soon as they reached me.

"Gee, Mums! It's good to have you home," Junior said, and Roderick dutifully echoed him with

"Sure! You bet it is!"

"Kin you take us swimming, Mums? Kin you? Junior asked.

"Uncle Harry generally takes us, but he said just now that Aunt Lillian had gone to New York on 'business of state,' and that he couldn't leave the farm house until she came back. What's 'business of state?' Uncle Harry said he couldn't explain it, but he could pronounce it. Isn't he a funny man, Mums?"

"Very funny, indeed," I returned, with an involuntary smile at the big man's nonsense.

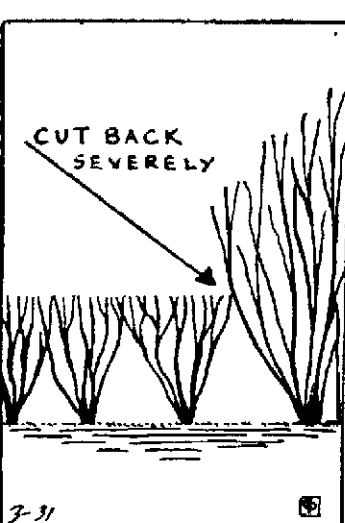

"Will you do something for me?" I asked them, and their faces brightened.

"I want a lot of those wild asters over there," I pointed to the brilliant blue clumps at the end of the farm yard. "If you'll ask Jim for some garden shears, and cut me some with some very long stems I shall be very pleased. Then you can help Jim as he picks the flowers in the perennial gardens. He'll tell you what to do. But first, will you find Jim, please, and send him here to me?"

"We'll do it right away," they promised, and took to their heels upon the word.

"There's no use your starting any yarn now," my mother-in-law said reasonably as she watched them scampering off. "We'll just wait until they all get to work and we're safely by ourselves in the rose garden."

Helpful pruning for new hedge

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Newly planted shrubbery should be cut back severely. Drastic pruning reduces the number of buds to be supplied with nourishment and has a tendency to make the new growth more vigorous.

A hedge of shrubbery should be planted several inches deeper than it stood in the nursery. Then it should be trimmed back severely, as shown in the Garden-Graph. The more severe the pruning at this time, the healthier the hedge will be after it has become established.

In pruning a well-established hedge that is making considerable height, it should be trimmed so that it slopes inward from bottom to top, and not the reverse. This method of trimming the top of the hedge narrower than the bottom permits sunshine to reach the lower branches, and thus prevents them from becoming scrawny and sickly.

Don't run around out of doors without your hands covered. Cold winds rattle the delicate cutaneous surface in the winter time, sun flays them in the silly season. Protection is the first rule of hand care.

Keep your fingers nimble. When they are stiff and rigid they move awkwardly. Clasp your fingers together, wriggle them with plenty of muscle pull. Wring your hands, frictioning them together, palm to palm. Better do that after the oil treatment. Cradle four fingers in the palm of the other hand, turn the fingers as far back toward the wrist as you can. Wave bye-bye. That's a grand exercise for making wrists flexible.

Don't use any old nail polish that takes your fancy. Observe whether it is friendly to the color of your skin. When hands are not in condition, apply a veneer of natural tone, a deep rose shade. Vivid polish calls attention to defects. If you have a golden skin keep clear of those raspberry-mulberry tones; rust shades will offer less of a contrast and will appear smartly.

Make your hands behave prettily. Don't clutch chair arms or let your hands hang awkwardly at your sides. Pose them daintily. Keep them tranquil. Women who are hand fingers are inclined to be nervous and excitable. And they "nervous" other people.

Different Recipes
Given

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Here are some recipes collected with an eye to requirements for entertaining. There comes a time when we run out of ideas and recipes and cast wildly about for a dish that is different, at the same time wanting said dish to keep within budget bounds and not to be too radically different.

Eggs Espagnol is a delicious supper dish, one that is always a big success at our house. It calls for two tablespoons cooking oil or melted shortening, one onion, one green pepper, two stalks celery, two cups canned tomatoes, teaspoon salt, generous pinch of pepper, teaspoon sugar, three tablespoons glycerine, one tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons dry bread crumbs and eggs. Put cooking oil or shortening into saucepan and saute onions until golden brown; then add celery and pepper, finely chopped, and cook until tender. Add remaining dry ingredients, thoroughly mixed, bread crumbs and Worcestershire sauce, and cook gently until onions are soft. Pour into a shallow glass or earthenware baking dish as many eggs as required. Season the eggs, cover the top well with grated American cheese and bake in moderate oven (375° F. to 400° F.) until the eggs are done to taste, usually about ten minutes.

Tuna Croquette Salad.

Thoughts of spring invariably take the practical form of nice new salads for luncheon. Tuna Croquette Salad is an ideal frozen salad when there's company to lunch. The recipe requires one envelope plain, unflavored gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, one cup tuna (or salmon or cod), one-half cup celery, chopped, two small sweet pickles, chopped, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two drops tabasco sauce and one-fourth cup finely-diced green pepper. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water. Mix fish with pepper, mayonnaise, celery, pickle, salt and tabasco sauce. Add softened gelatin and stir until well mixed. Form into 12 small croquettes (cone shaped). Roll in finely-grated cheese and put in cold place to chill. Serve on lettuce and garnish with quarters of tomato.

Coconut Chiffon Pie.

Coconut Chiffon Pie is a real "company" dessert, a pie that is different in flavor. It requires one envelope plain, unflavored gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, three slightly-beaten egg yolks, one-fourth cup sugar, one cup milk, three egg whites, one-half cup coconut, one teaspoon vanilla, one-half teaspoon lemon extract and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Beat yolks with sugar and salt. Add milk and cook in top of double boiler until thickened and of a custard consistency. Stir constantly. Soften gelatin in cold water and add to hot custard. Stir until dissolved. Cool and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in egg whites, stiffly beaten, coconut, vanilla and lemon flavoring. Pour into baked pie shell and chill. Garnish top with toasted coconut. If desired, almond flavoring may be used in place of lemon extract.

STOP THAT SACRIFICE

Nobody likes to lose a fine score for game or slam because the opponents make a cheap sacrifice against your big hand. So, if you hold a laydown for such a result, you don't want the enemy to know it. Much better if you can keep your strength somewhat concealed and make them think they have a chance to beat you. Thereby you not only may keep them from sacrificing, but you may lure them into giving you some extra points by means of a double.

What would you do with that West hand if South made an opening bid of 6-Spades against you? Right. We would do the same, bid 7-Hearts.

That is exactly what happened at one table of a team-of-four duplicate game. It was set two tricks, North and South taking the two minor suits.

A canner South at the other table bid only 1-Spade, knowing that the bidding would be kept open with two ace-kings and an ace out, plus all that length in hearts and clubs. Over this, West hopped at once to 4-Hearts. South, who was using the Blackwood artificial ace-asking convention with his partner, concealed the nature of his hand further with 4-No trump. North disclosed one ace with 5-Diamonds, whereupon South bid 6-Spades.

West thought there was some doubt about South's making this contract, so passed to see what East wanted to do. East cheerfully doubled it, but later his smiles turned to figurative tears as the contract was made, only the trump ace being lost.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, April 1

Fine energy and initiative are indicated on this day by very forceful planetary influences. New projects and major ventures are highly stimulated, moving at high pressure toward success and achievement. There should be much constructive ability and resourcefulness. However, there may be many lures to swerve from the line of duty to indulgence in pleasure or romance. Sign all writings with care.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a definitely progressive and constructive year, with the energies and initiative stimulated to high efficiency and accomplishment; new projects respond to strenuous endeavor. Nevertheless, the finer matters of life prove lures to enjoyment, social indulgences, with romantic adventure probably in the lead.

A child born on this day may have much creative talent, with splendid energy and enterprise for practical accomplishment as well as for spirited adventure. It may be resourceful, aggressive and at the same time socially or romantically inclined.

TWO GARDEN CLUBS ANNOUNCE PROGRAMS

Town and Country, Johnny Appleseed Organizations Will Participate In June Flower Show, Joint Luncheon Session.

IN SPITE of all efforts it has been impossible so far to get the weather man to agree with the makers of garden club programs. The result? Well, today all five of the Mansfield Garden clubs resume their regularly scheduled meetings for the season in spite of winterish winds.

Previously we have told you about the activities of some of the organizations, and today we have received the last two attractively bound club books.

Town and Country.

A bright blue hand-lettered program adorned with a scarlet poppy announces the activities for the Town and Country group. Plans include regular meetings every two weeks with various members presenting papers on horticulture, plant raising, floral decorations, and care of flowers.

Several weeks ago we told you of the flower show which will be held at the Raemelon Riding hall June 10 and 11, and the Town and Country club will participate in this program along with the other organizations of the city. They will also attend the joint meeting of all the clubs at Westbrook Country club when Dr. Paul Vischer lectures on conservation.

Officers of this club are Mrs. C. H. Bell, president; Mrs. M. G. Brebeck, vice-president; Mrs.

Ralph Emerson, recording secretary; Mrs. S. H. Cramer, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. K. L. Woodman, treasurer.

Johnny Appleseed.

The other unit to announce plans for the season is the Johnny Appleseed Garden club. Members of this organization will present the programs throughout the year except at the joint meeting on June 23 and at the flower show. Two picnics are being planned for May 19 and July 7 with Mrs. Charles Siegenthaler and Mrs. J. T. Lusignan, Jr. in charge of arrangements.

A similar affair will be held July 21 at Chaska beach with Mrs. Edward Loughridge, Mrs. Louis Meisse and Mrs. Allen Bond serving as hostesses. Officers of the organization are Mrs. Tom Ford, president; Mrs. Carl Gibson, vice-president; Mrs. Bond, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry Sanford, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Robert B. Black, treasurer.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

WITH the advent of Friday and the close of another week, an avalanche of vacationing college students seems to be descending upon the city. . . . Three Mansfield students are returning from Denison university in Granville this week-end—Carolyn Wolf, John Hammer and Thomas Maxwell are the three who are looking forward to a nine-day vacation with their parents before resuming classes at the university on April 11.

Miami university seems to be sending quite a delegation of students up from Oxford, too. . . . Naomi Griffin, Eleanor Fraser, Joan Balliet, Frances Hanson, Robert Straub, Edward Maxwell, Richard Graffmiller and William Dow (who are members of the freshman class at the university) will arrive today to visit with their parents for the April recess. . . . Frances is bringing her roommate, June Davis, of Cleveland, along home with her, and Joan will bring along a friend of hers from Pittsburgh, Pa., Virginia Bateman.

AND speaking of college students, you should hear of the fine record that Don R. Underwood has made for himself since his graduation from high school this last January. . . . Don is home from the U. S. Naval Training station at Newport, R. I., now visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Underwood. . . . He has just graduated from the school—completing a 12-week course in seven weeks! Soon after his return to Newport tomorrow, Don will go to New York City—where he will await his ship assignment. (He plans to spend some time at the New York fair—and then hopes to be stationed on a boat which will sail through the Panama Canal and around the west coast of the United States.)

NOW along a little different line—word comes of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Carrick in Richmond, Va. . . . Mrs. Carrick is the former Mary Frances Barr of this city—and she and her husband have named the baby Jack Arnold. Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Barr, 31 Greenwood avenue, are consequently a couple of pretty proud grandparents these days!

Marcia Roach has just returned from one of the most exciting winter vacations of the season. . . . She and Naomi Kaler (who moved from Mansfield to Washington, D. C., some ten months ago) saw pretty much of the world on their trip—or at least a good one-third of it! Their itinerary included Denver, Salt Lake City, Seattle and Vancouver, Canada. They sailed from the latter port to Honolulu . . . and from there took boat trips to some of the other islands in the Pacific. . . . And even though they ran into some snow storms on the way out, when they reached Honolulu they found perfect weather—and ideal ocean bathing. . . .

BY A STROKE of good fortune, Marcia and Naomi arrived in Honolulu on Feb. 22—and the islanders had a celebration in honor of Washington's birthday which lasted for a week—with (what seemed to the girls) continuous parades and bands. . . . They returned to the United States by way of Vancouver, and then traveled down the west coast, visiting in Portland, Ore., San Francisco (where they stopped off at the Golden Gate expo—and saw three Mansfielders, Dave Kohler, Felix Horne and Bill Mayoy, who are working there now), Los Angeles and the Grand Canyon. . . . The girls also went down into Texas—where they visited at El Paso, Houston and Galveston. . . . and then returned home by way of New Orleans, and up through the deep South. . . . Two very lucky girls, wouldn't you say?

Robert Clingan will arrive in Mansfield today to attend the wedding of his sister, Dorothy, to Norman Leonard, of Lexington, tomorrow afternoon. . . . Bob is a member of the junior class at Ohio university in Athens this year—and he also belongs to Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

MRS. GLENN S. VINSON left today for a visit with her daughter and son-in-law in New York—and although the couple lives practically in the country, their home is only 15 miles from Times Square—in fact, Mrs. Vinson says that you can see its bright lights from the house. . . . She plans to be gone for a week or ten days, and take in a few plays while there.

Play Five Hundred At Smith Home Last Night

There were four tables of five hundred in play at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Smith, 111 Western avenue, last night when they entertained members of the Shamrock club. High score prizes were presented to Mrs. R. O. Darling and Nathan Heston.

Mrs. Smith served a luncheon at a table decorated with Easter appointments to the members and two guests, Miss Mary Stiff and Miss Dorothy Charles. The next meeting will be April 14 with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Webber, Oak street road.

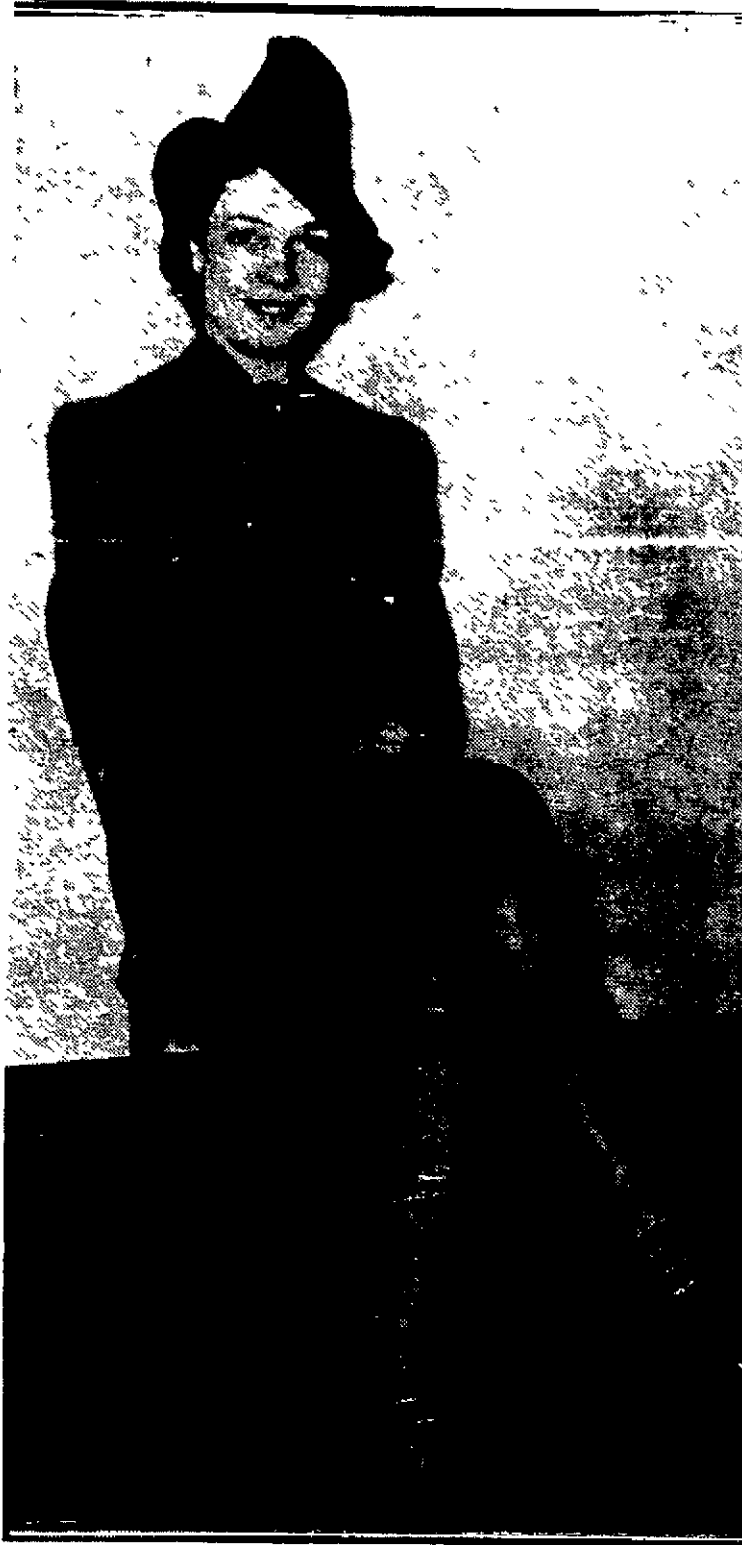

New Social Club Has Election of Officers

Newest of the social clubs in Mansfield is the Revelers club which was organized yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. C.

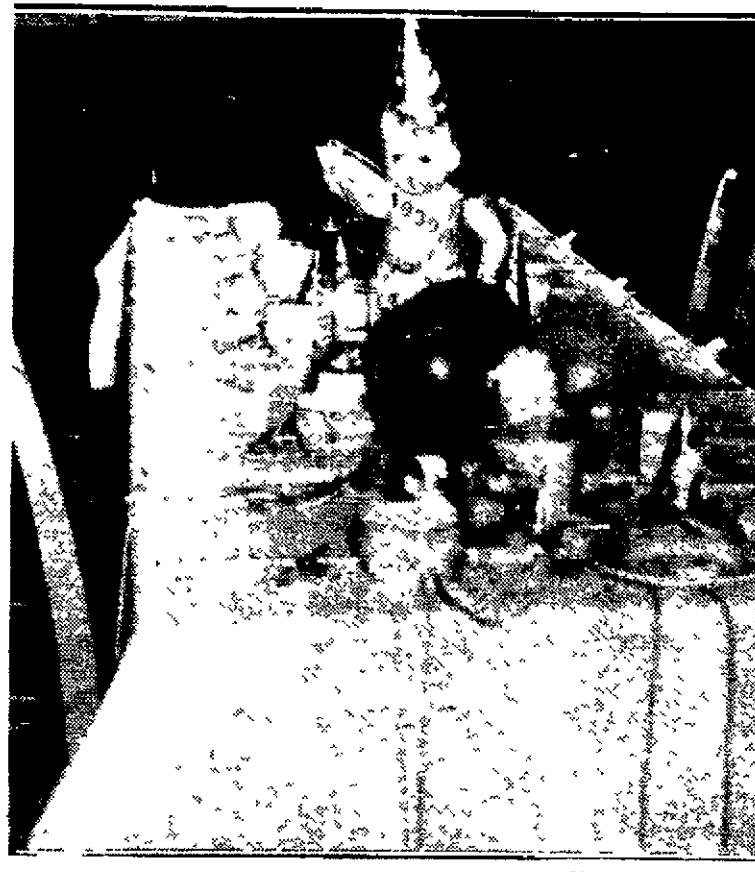

Dinger, 300 Wayne street. Mrs. Dinger was elected president, and Mrs. J. E. Branden was named secretary during the initial session. For the remainder of the afternoon the members played pinochle, and the hostess served a luncheon at a long table decorated with blue and white appointments. Mrs. Branden, 270 Wayne street, will be the hostess for the April 13 meeting.

Do This If You're NERVOUS
Don't take chances on products you know nothing about or rely on temporary relief when there's need of a good general system tonic like time-proven Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots. Let Pinkham's Compound help build up more physical resistance and thus aid in calming jangled nerves, lessening distress from constipation and making life worth living. For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with "pinkham's"—over 1,000,000 women have written in reporting glorious benefits—it MUST BE GOOD!

Returned Traveler; Yearly Celebration In Headlines

Miss Marcia Roach, West Fourth street, shown in the above picture, has just returned from a two months' trip to Honolulu, Hawaii, where she was visiting with Miss Naomi Kaler of Washington, D. C. The Misses Roach and Kaler also traveled through the western part of the United States while on their winter vacation.

When members of the Women's association of the First Congregational church met for their annual birthday party in the church parlors yesterday, Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson, general chairman, Mrs. L. A. Lamoreaux, chairman of the March birthday table, and Mrs. Ethel Chanel, chairman of the April birthday table, posed for the above picture. They are seated from left to right.

Circles Of Guild Elect Officers At General Assembly

Following the meeting of the First Presbyterian church guild in the church parlors yesterday, members of the five circles assembled to elect officers for the coming year. Mrs. W. R. King led the business meeting, and Mrs. D. N. Roller was in charge of devotions for the 87 members and two guests, Mrs. W. C. Lytel and Mrs. Frank Nase.

Circle One will be headed this year by Mrs. Edward C. Axtell assisted by Mrs. Clayton C. Wagner, vice-chairman; Mrs. Albert Cameron, secretary, and Mrs. M. H. Hieber, treasurer. Mrs. F. E. Damer is in charge of Circle Two. Her officers are Mrs. C. V. Baker, vice-chairman; Miss Flora Lentz, secretary, and Mrs. R. E. Ditsler, treasurer. Mrs. John Angle will entertain this circle May 4 at her Vennum avenue home.

The chairman of Circle Three is Mrs. W. R. Hainer. She will share her executive duties with Mrs. Hamilton Patton, vice-chairman; Mrs. Thomas Siegenthaler, secretary; Mrs. C. W. Barnes, treasurer, and Mrs. W. H. Goodenough, devotional chairman. The next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner at the church May 4.

Mrs. L. L. Nichols is the chairman of Circle Four. Her assistants are Mrs. C. W. Chew, vice-chairman; Mrs. Harvey Lapehart, secretary, and Mrs. M. M. Collins, treasurer. No arrangements were made for the next meeting.

Mrs. D. O. Meese will preside at sessions of Circle Five with the assistance of Mrs. C. O. Russell, vice-chairman; Mrs. Edwin Balyeat, secretary, and Mrs. Harry Buchan, treasurer.

Tea followed with Mrs. King, Mrs. C. A. McClure, Mrs. B. L. Chase, Mrs. W. G. Gifford, and Mrs. J. M. Johnston in charge. The next guild meeting will be April 20.

Rural electrification promoters hope 1,680,000 American farm homes will receive electricity for the first time during the next eight years.

Women's Association Holds Annual Birthday Luncheon

MORE than 100 members and guests of the Women's association of the First Congregational church were present yesterday for the birthday party, which that organization sponsors annually in the church parlors.

The luncheon was served at 1:30 p. m. at 12 long tables, decorated to represent the months of the year. The March birthday table was marked with the proverbial lion and lamb, a winter sking scene, and a model Ferdinand, the Bull, smelling a bouquet of pansies. A May pole dance was used as the centerpiece of the May table when a pastel color scheme was carried out, and each of the guests places was marked with a rose. A miniature county fair was depicted on the September table, and it was complete even to all the animals and amusements. Bright colored balloons were tied to the backs of each of the chairs.

Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson was general chairman for yesterday's meeting. Those members of the association who had charge of tables were Mrs. Clifford Wert, January; Mrs. M. V. Scouten and Mrs. H. B. Soulen, February; Mrs. V. P. Sparks and Mrs. L. A. Lamoreaux, March; Mrs. Ethel Chanel, April; Mrs. David Shelley, May; Mrs. Anne Snyder, June; Mrs. Rex Averill and Mrs. R. D. Lindsay, July; Mrs. Ernest Larson and Mrs. T. J. Patton, August; Mrs. E. W. Dann and Mrs. Paul Weir, September; Mrs. Arthur Cline and Mrs. Dietrichson, October; Mrs. John W. Graham and Mrs. George Kirtley, November; and Mrs. B. R. Ahrendt, December. Bronco Petrovich, a student at Mansfield senior high school, designed and made the September display.

Those members of the association whose birthdays number over 80, were honored guests for the occasion. These honorees were Mrs. Alice Sloan, Mrs. A. J. Mack, Mrs. Mary Boden and Mrs. Mary Cairns.

During the afternoon, Miss Thelma Slack, head of the dramatic department at Ashland college, read the play "Mary Magdalene." Miss Kathleen McIntosh presented the musical portion of the program by singing the "Waltz Song" from "Romeo and Juliet."

and "One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly." She also sang "Sweethearts" and the "Second Minuet." Miss Louise Krause played the piano accompaniment. The next meeting of the association will be on April 6 with tea at 2:30 p. m.

CLUB SESSION.

Mrs. Robert Beck and Mrs. Everett Chalker were guests of the Atlas club last evening, when Mrs. Robert Gressmer entertained that group at her home on Bowman street. Games and contests were played during the evening, and later the hostess served a buffet luncheon. Mrs. Robert Keenan has invited the club members to her home on Lexington avenue for the meeting of April 13.

FINAL PARTY FETES MISS DOROTHY CLINGAN

Mrs. Frank Winters, Mrs. Dale Steward Hostesses For Shower; Mansfield Girl Will Wed Norman E. Leonard Tomorrow.

THE final pre-nuptial party in honor of Miss Dorothy Clingan, bride-elect of Norman E. Leonard, of Lexington, was given yesterday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Winters on the Wooster road. Mrs. Dale Steward served as associate hostess for the affair, which was a hosiery shower.

Bridge was in play at three tables during the evening. The Misses Vivian Miller and Eleanor Clingan received the high score awards, which they in turn presented to the honoree. The guests then gave Miss Clingan a shower of hosiery, and the hostesses presented her with a wedding gift.

The small tables were decorated with spring flowers when refreshments were served later in the evening.

Mrs. H. H. Clingan, the honoree's mother, was a guest at last evening's party.

Miss Clingan and Mr. Leonard will be married tomorrow afternoon in a quiet ceremony at the Women's Club. Rev. Peter Young will read the service at 3:30 o'clock.

MANSFIELD WOMEN ENTERTAIN AT TEA

Two Committees Serve as Hostesses for Afternoon Function; Parent Representatives Guests of Honor.

THE school garden club committee and the junior garden club committee of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club were the hostesses yesterday at the home of Mrs. Louis J. Ott, Woodhill road, when the teachers and parent representatives from the Carpenter and West Fifth Street school districts were entertained at tea.

Mrs. Harold Bruce, Miss Kathleen Sturges, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mrs. Lewis Hartman, Mrs. A. W. Melhack and Mrs. Ott are the members of the two committees. Mrs. Tom Ford, president of the club, greeted the guests, and tea was served to them by Mrs. Hartman.

Guests of honor were Mrs. Robert Zaebst from West Fifth street district, and Mrs. Roscoe Traxler from the Carpenter school district. Following the club meeting and luncheon today at the home of Mrs. Hartman, the members went to West Fifth Street school where they assisted the children in conducting an Arbor day program. The tree which was planted was dedicated to President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and a letter signed by all the children will be sent to the president, announcing the dedication.

Miss Beck Hostess To Jolly Times Members

Luncheon was served at small tables last night when Miss Lucille Beck, West Fifth street, entertained 12 members of the Jolly Times club. Cards were played with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Ray Heichel and Mrs. Clark Stutz. Miss Iona Heichel won the floral fund prize. The next meeting of the club will be April 13 at the home of Miss Helen Long, Woodland avenue.

Girl Reserve Committee Conducts Tea

The above picture was taken when the Girl Reserve committee of the Y. W. C. A. entertained advisers of the Girl Reserve clubs with a tea at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Lloyd B. Paste and Mrs. D. R. Wolff (seated above) were hostesses for the affair. Mrs. Gene Zediker, a club adviser, and Miss Violet Richardson, Girl Reserve secretary, are standing (from left to right) in the picture. Mrs. Thornton Moore, committee chairman, was in charge of yesterday's business session and also presided at the tea table. Miss Richardson discussed the year's activities of the Girl Reserve clubs and outlined the coming spring program during the meeting.

Announce Plans For Initiation

Following informal initiation ceremonies on April 13, pledges of Beta Kappa Tau sorority will be formally inducted into the social organization on April 21, it was announced last night when the members met in their club rooms. Miss Esther Lantz, initiation committee chairman, announced that notification of pledgeship was being sent to prospective members today.

Miss Lantz will be assisted with the ceremonial work by the Misses Margaret Kochheiser, Ethel Heuss and Florence Smith. Tryouts for two plays which the sorority plans to give soon will be held in the club rooms April 3. Miss Pauline Folmer, play selection chairman, announced last night. Miss Folmer is being assisted by the Misses Ruth Schuck, Margaret Moorhead and Esther Lantz.

LISTS SENIORS WHO WILL TAKE SCHOLAR TESTS

Senior High Chairman Names 42 Participating in State Quiz Here Tomorrow.

The names of 42 senior students at Senior high school who will take the annual senior scholarship tests Saturday were announced today by J. C. Stout, a member of the faculty and chairman of the tests at the school.

Participants are selected from the top 40 per cent of their class. The tests which will be given at the high school beginning at 9 a. m. and continuing for two hours, will include mathematics, English, and science. The exams are sponsored by the state department of education.

Hazel Twitchell, Rudolph Perry, Marilyn Eckstein, Walter Simon, Eloise Husung, Ruth Husung, Ruth Meisel, Janet Kelly, Joseph Logan, Ralph Pearson, Marilyn Wright, Betty Pearce, Ralph Arlin, Mildred Miller, Howard Ray, Dorothy Bell, Jane Miller, James Hart and Ralph Robbins.

Plans for a party and dance for members of the Red Masque club were made at a meeting of the group yesterday. The party will be held next Thursday in the high school cafeteria, and will be open to club members and friends. A dinner is to be served at 6:30 p. m. followed by a program of dancing, Chinese checkers and table tennis. Vivian Miller, club president, is in charge of arrangements for the event.

The 12-A class will sponsor an "April Fool" dance Saturday night in the school gymnasium. Dancing will begin at 8:30 p. m. and music will be furnished by Harold Duda and his orchestra.

Another in a series of noon day dances was held today in the gymnasium under sponsorship of the Student Representative Council. Proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of the Red and White handbook recently published. There will be no noon dance next week due to the observance of Good Friday, according to Ray Bush, president of the council. The council will sponsor a school dance Saturday, April 8, in the gymnasium.

Spelling Aces to 'Battle' Webster In 'Bee' Tonight

Tonight a team of Mansfield's best spellers will tilt orthographic lances with a News-Journal team in the Grotto weekly spelling bee at Grotto hall, Park avenue west and Walnut street.

Tonight's "bee" is being sponsored by the Shaw Jewelry company which will present $15 in prizes to winners. The word bout gets under way at 8 p. m. and is open to the public, though an admission price is being charged.

Although the spelling bouts have been marked by a good attendance in the past, unusual interest has been evidenced in tonight's contest—possibly because the newspaper contestants have been given what might be called "advance billing" as good spellers, which they deny. The fact that Attorney John F. Kramer recognized the word "gniss" (which pertains to a rock formation and is pronounced like "nice") and could spell it in last week's "bee", has them all, including Louis Bromfield, author, entirely baffled.

Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch will give out the words and Harry E. Colbow will act as judge. Someone in the audience will win ten cents every time one of the spellers misses a word if the non-contestant can spell it correctly.

Members of the teams will score ten points for every word correctly spelled. Awards will be made on the basis of the highest scores.

L. A. Cook and Attorney C. H. Freehar are in charge of arrangements for the contest.

SCHMIDT RETIRES

Noted Scholar, Author Leaves Post at Oregon U.

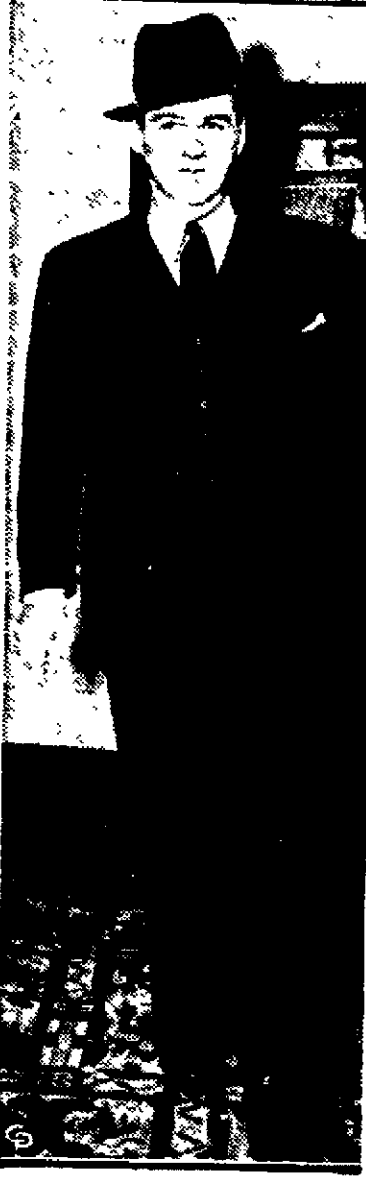

EUGENE, Ore. — (NS) — Dr. Friedrich George Gottlieb Schmidt, noted scholar and author, announced his retirement from the University of Oregon's Germanic language department faculty after 42 years' service. Dr. Schmidt, 70, gained fame in 1935 for his translation of Goethe's "Faust" into English prose, which was widely acclaimed by American and European critics. He will devote his time to travel and writing.

BUILD MEMORIAL

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. — (NS) — On the spot where Captain Jack, renegade Modoc Indian leader, and his companions were executed as an aftermath to the bloody Modoc war, Daughters of the American Revolution will erect a stone marker for the benefit of travelers on the Dalles-California highway.

Called a Spy?

Accusing the Countess Dorothy di Frasso, well known in Hollywood circles, of slander because "she called me a Nazi spy," the Baron Raven E. A. Barnekow, above, fiancée of the actress Kay Francis, appeared to the Los Angeles district attorney's office for a slander complaint. A deputy district attorney refused to comply with the request.

PLANS 4 HOLY WEEK SERVICES

Jeromesville Lutheran Church to Open Observance Tuesday.

JEROMESVILLE — The annual Holy Week services of the Stone Lutheran church will begin Tuesday evening, Rev. John Ernest Hofer, pastor, announced today.

Services will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8 p. m. Rev. Hofer will conduct the services. His subjects will be: "Why Judas Betrayed Jesus," "Roses or Lilies," "The Trial of Jesus," and "Voices." Music will be presented at each service under the direction of Mrs. Howard Fox.

During the Friday service the preparatory service of confession and absolution will be held, and Easter Sunday morning, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated.

OBSERVES DAY

Lexington to Hold Community Good Friday Services.

LEXINGTON — Lexington's first community Good Friday service will be held next Friday at the Presbyterian church with Rev. W.

H. Hubbell of Cleveland as the speaker.

The service begins at 12:15 p. m. and continues until 1:15. Rev. Hubbell will speak on the subject, "The Transforming Power of the Cross." The speaker served as pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church of Cleveland for 25 years and for 20 years was secretary and treasurer of the Cleveland Ministerial association. Music will be furnished by the church choir. Rev. Glenn McKinley Sauder, pastor of the church, is in charge of arrangements. Lexington business men are co-operating with pastors for the observance by closing their places of business during the hour of the service.

"RIGHT YOU ARE! THAT'S TEA AS IS TEA!"

IT'S SO FLAVORY, SO FRAGRANT AND SATISFYING. A CUP OF LIPTON'S MAKES ME FEEL GRAND!

YES, LIPTON'S IS DIFFERENT — IT HAS SUCH WONDERFUL FLAVOR, AND I GET MORE THAN 200 CUPS PER POUND!

HERE'S why Lipton's is America's largest-selling tea:

1. World-Famous Flavor—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. Tender Young Leaves—and luscious flavorful buds—give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. Distinctive Uniform Blend—with choice teas from Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.
4. Economical—it's so rich in flavor.

Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau

Lipton's Tea "PEPS YOU UP"

Only WILSON & CO. Makes Certified Smoked Ham

"TALK ABOUT A TASTE THRILL... THIS WILSON'S SMOKED HAM HAS IT!"

It's hard to describe a taste to someone else, but this smoked ham flavor is different—it really is. That real, smoky taste is still there, but it's been sort of streamlined—smooth and mild and sweet. It's the Ham in Bright Orange Wrapper.

EASIER TO COOK. This smoked ham requires no parboiling. Have ham at room temperature. Bake according to your favorite recipe 16 minutes to the pound for whole ham (19 minutes to the pound for half ham) at an oven temperature 325° F. to 350° F. This short cooking time saves fuel and reduces shrinkage.

WILSON'S CERTIFIED BACON—Exceptionally good eating. Flavor, texture and quality always uniform.

Bacon-Baked Casserole—Put 1 can baked beans in small casserole. Mix with 1 tablespoon catsup. Cover with slices of Wilson's Certified Bacon and sprinkle with grated cheese. Place under broiler until bacon is crisp.

"Just putting them away dear!"

THIS WEEK-END SEE WHY MILLIONS SAY: "RITZ IS THE WORLD'S MOST HELPFUL CRACKER"

RITZ PLEASES EVERYBODY—"Picky" eaters...finicky folks...hard-to-please guests—all answer with a smile when you pass Ritz. This tantalizing golden-brown cracker is America's favorite—it's the one cracker you know they'll like.

RITZ IS ALWAYS "GOOD TASTE"—in both senses of the word. Serve it with meals...with cheese...beverages...milk...spreads—every food on the list gathers glamour from Ritz. Serve it alone—it's a real treat in itself.

RITZ NEVER DISAPPOINTS YOU—Every single cracker is temptingly browned—fresh and crunchy. There are no "pale sisters" as there are in boxes of imperfectly baked crackers. A special baking secret keeps Ritz fresh and flavorful—down to the last one in the package.

Order a goodly supply of Ritz for the week-end. See how many "rough edges" it smooths out on menus!

SUGGESTION OF THE WEEK! Apples and Ritz! There's a flavor combination that's simply scrumptious! Try it as a bed-time treat tonight!

Odds 3 to 1 Against Davey

Tonight to Mark Sixth Bout for Henry in Four Months.

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Davey Day crawls through the ropes at Madison Square Garden tonight to fight Henry Armstrong for the welterweight championship of the world. The odds are three to one against Davey but he is going to give it the old college try.

Day has done most of his gladiatorial work in and around Chicago. He is unbeaten in more than two years of fighting, he punches sharply and he has a short right uppercut that could turn out to be quite a weapon against Armstrong when the champion swarms in close. Davey will have height, reach and weight on Henry, and the chief question seems to be whether he can summon up the stamina to stay in there for 15 rounds and take the mauling that Armstrong hands out.

As for Armstrong this will be the sixth defense of his welterweight title in the last four months, and Henry is so confident that he has his trunks packed for a journey to England where he will give Ernie Roderick a shot at the championship.

Armstrong's lightweight title will not be at stake because Day will come in around 138—three pounds over the lightweight limit.

Feller Again Effective As Indians Triumph, 5-3.

LAKE CHARLES, La.—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians, happy over the effective three innings pitched by Willis Hudlin against the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, said today that the veteran Earl Averill would break into the lineup in the New York Giant series at Ebbets Field.

Bob Feller gave up two hits in four innings as the Tribe defeated the A's, 5-3, with Ken Keltner banging out two singles and a triple.

Two Mansfield Teams In Fight

Yunker Sports Face Galion, and Westinghouse Electrics Engage Marion In Semi-Finals.

By CHARLES MARTIN

MANSFIELD basketball enthusiasts planning to attend the semi-finals and finals of The News-Journal-Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal exhibition at last evening's results are an indication of what to expect. Manager Jimmy Brewer's Yunker Sports, pre-tourney favorites, served notice on their rivals by averaging 66 points apiece in winning their quarter-final tussles before a fair-sized gathering.

Tonight's four-game program opens at 7 o'clock with the Sportsmen and the Winter Gulf Oils of Galion tangling in the initial semi-final melee. The Electrics and Marion clash in the second tilt at 8. This affray will be followed an hour later with the consolation finals, with the championship affair scheduled for 10 o'clock.

Sports Impressive.

The Sports City Class A league champions, chalked up the most impressive victory last night by thumping the Blue Goose Sohioans, 62 to 34. In the other contests, the Snappy Service representatives annexed team scoring honors by ripping apart an outclassed Johns Park club, 78 to 24, and the Westies tallied an easy 58 to 24 decision over the Ashland Bobcats in the final.

Ray Friday, veteran city league star, playing a forward position for the Electrics, put on an individual backboard bombardment that may enable him to win the single game record.

The former Ontario high star flipped in 12 goals and a pair of free throws for 26 points, two more than Al Sticker, sharpshooting Yunker ace, who collected 24 markers in last week's opening games.

Incidentally, Sticker didn't fall far short of Friday's mark as he paced the Sports to their one-sided win. The erstwhile Mansfield high star, whose clever rebound work has been a feature of the Sports' play all season, landed in 23 more tallies to boost his tournament total to 47, one short of the mark which won the tournament championship last year.

While Friday and Sticker were staging a two-man fight for high-point honors, seven other players came in with 14 or more points. Leading the list was Mickey Farnen of Marion, who piled up 20 markers.

Will After Half.

The Sports-Blue Goose melee was the only fairly interesting tilt on the program. For two periods the Sohioans gave the favorites a battle. But the height advantage the Yunker machine held proved too big of an advantage after the intermission.

For a period and a half at the opening of the game, the Oilmen held the upper hand with their expert rebounding playing an important part in throttling the Sports.

But when Sticker began connecting it seemed to work as a tonic for Johnny Reese and Freddie Lewis also started parting the strings and it wasn't long before the winners held a comfortable lead.

Led by Kenny Hardin and Bob Bogantz, the Blue Goose combine in the first half possessed a hard charging attack.

Blue Goose fought to an 8-all tie in the initial frame, and then fell behind, 18 to 17 at the rest period. The Sports led, 35 to 23, at the end of three quarters. Hardin and Bogantz tallied 11 points apiece. Reese and Lewis collected 16 and 14 points, respectively, for the Sports.

There was never any doubt about the outcome of the other games. Both winners jumped into the lead in the early minutes and coasted through. Marion displayed a stout defense in the third frame when it whitewashed the Park outfit. Marion led 39-13 at the half. Roy Greene, who won the individual scoring title last year, followed Farnen in the scoring column with 16 points.

Encounter Trouble. Pilot George Percy's Westies encountered trouble in locating the basket in the initial period, but had an easy time of it once they did connect. The Electrics moved ahead 16 to 8, in the first chapter, and 23 to 12 at halftime. Howard Poole marked up 14 points to trail Friday. Ryder, Hargrove and Grover hit five markers apiece to top Ashland.

The three games were run off in record time. Only one timeout was taken by any club. Ashland requesting a two-minute rest period in the third frame. Earl Reichert, who did a capable job of officiating, called a total of 49 fouls, an average of 16 per contest.

Tackles Grandovitch In Armory Tonight

'Sailor' Raines May Prove Too Tough for Russian In Headline Grapple Match.

DEL "SAILOR" RAINES, newest threat from California to invade midwestern heavyweight mat circles, will attempt to halt the long winning streak of Leon Grandovitch, Russian Panther, in the Armory tonight. The ex-gob and the powerful contender from the U. S. S. R. will wrestle for two falls with a 90-minute time limit.

Grandovitch is riding the crest of a wave of victories, halting the streaks of two top-flight heavyweights in the past month. In Columbus recently he defeated the Nazi storm-trooper, Friederich Von Schacht. Last week in Mansfield he halted Frank Sexton, the powerful farmer boy from Sedalia.

First Appearance.

Raines will be making his first bow to local followers of the sport. In the midwest for only a few days, his advance notices indicate that he will not only be able to hold his own against the Russian, but stands an even chance of emerging victorious. He weighs 230 pounds, is former champion of the U. S. Asiatic fleet, and is a bundle of dynamite in the ring.

Whitey Wahlberg, popular Swede from Duluth, Minn., will be out to improve his standing among the world's light-heavyweights when he opposed young Davey Reynolds of Cedar Rapids, Ia. They are billed in the semi-final and will wrestle for two falls, with a 45-minute time limit.

Steve Budynas, of Schenectady, N. Y., tangles with Sailor Bull Curly of Gloucester, Mass., in the opener, slated to start at 8:30.

Failed to Blossom. He was ticketed as a great prospect when he came up to Cleveland from New Orleans in the Southern association several years ago. But for this reason or that he never blossomed into a big league star.

Denny isn't blaming anyone. He feels the trouble is that he hasn't been given enough opportunities to show his stuff. He needs a lot of work. And with Bob Feller, Johnny Allen, and other good tossers around, Cleveland just didn't use him enough to let him find himself. At least that's Galehouse's story.

This spring he's with the Boston Red Sox. And Boston is a club that needs pitching. So Denny is happy. He figures that Joe Cronin will give him the chance he's been waiting for and that he'll prove himself a winning twirler.

Denny went to Hot Springs a few weeks ago and came to the Sarasota camp in fine condition. He lost more games than he won last year, copping only seven triumphs. He's pretty confident he'll at least double his victories this season.

Galehouse has a trace of Dutch in him. It's just enough to make him keep plodding along until he gets what he wants. He wants a regular starting job with the Red Sox.

The Others.—Galehouse is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 1 and weighing 190 pounds. He's a right-hander. He has a pretty swift fast ball.

Denny is one of the three pitchers Manager Cronin acquired in trades last winter. The others are Elden Auker and Jake Wade. Auker is the chap with the baffling underhand delivery. A right-hander, he won 11 games for Detroit last year. Wade is a southpaw from Detroit, who'll win some games for the Red Sox if he can locate the plate.

Otherwise, Boston's pitching staff is the same.—Jim Bagby, Lefty Grove, Emerson Dickman, Fred Ostermiller, Jack Wilson and Joe Heving. Charles Wagner from Minneapolis and Woodrow Rich from Little Rock may stick but both could stand a little more seasoning.

MERLE HUSTON ISSUES GRID SUITS AT CRESTLINE. CRESTLINE.—Merle Huston, high school coach, handed out 40 uniforms this week in preparation for spring football practice which will begin next Monday and continue through the month of April.

The first few weeks will be given over to the fundamentals of blocking and tackling and the last of the spring practice will be intersquad games.

REDS NEED WIN TODAY TO SQUARE DODGER SERIES

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the final of their four-game spring series today, and the Reds need to win for an even break. The Dodgers beat the Detroit Tigers 6-4 yesterday for their eighth win in 14 starts. The Reds dropped their ninth in 17 starts, 3-2 to the Washington Senators.

When Paul Derringer weakened in the eighth and the Nats rushed home six runs.

Fred Haney Says Browns Need To Learn Schoolboy Rudiments

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

AUSTIN, Tex.—(AP)—Schoolboy fundamentals, unearthed by a gent who apparently doesn't believe all major leaguers are perfect, may bolster hopes of the St. Louis Browns this season.

Squat, mellow Fred Haney, a man who could pass for a college professor in his quieter moments, has revived the quaint old customs of sliding, bunting and base running around the Brownie training camp.

Only a favored few are excepted in the routine.

Pitchers are not among those excepted in the brushing dives into the sliding pit. As a matter of fact, Manager Haney really started hearing down when he discovered that one of his elbowers, Ed Cole, had never made a slide. Manager Haney's astonishment was mild compared to Pitcher Cole's bruises and aches for a few days.

"Bunts and slides can win a few ball games, you know," mused Haney. "At least we're going to be prepared for the occasions."

Ready For Anything.

Over in a box, squinting through the sun, Vice President Bill Dewitt of the Browns, who is ready for anything that will take the rust off the turnstiles, nodded vigorously.

The regulars, a gang of ball busters who finished second in club batting last year, took five bunts and then circled the bases—quite a departure from a bunt, three slugs and a jog.

Haney, up from Toledo for his first major-league managerial job, is blessed with a fine farm in the San Antonio club of the Texas league, which this season may give him two regular infielders, a couple of swell hurlers and an outfielder. But he is just as old-fashioned about night baseball as he is about fundamentals.

"This night baseball is all right, I suppose, but it is hard on pitchers. It's just not the old time baseball. You can't get the signs all of the time out there on the mound and base runners have a harder time."

But, he admitted, he could use a couple of pitchers like Bill Trotter and Jackie Kramer, who won 22 and 20 games respectively for San Antonio in the nocturnal setting last year.

Working Days, Now.

Two of the San Antonio farmhands, however, can cavort and are cavorting in the daylight—and they may break into the Browns lineup. Johnny Berardino, a California college boy who was a riot at second base for the San Antonio last year and clouted over 300, took advantage of Don Heffner's long layoff because of holdout troubles and may stick right there.

His partner in the Texas league's most murderous double-play combine last season, Sig Gryskala, also a ball buster, has been plugging the shortstop hole since Red Kress developed a desire for more money and failed to report. They're both nocturnal products but Manager Haney might discard his old-fashioned ideas—just for the moment—if the Berardino-Gryskala combination keeps clicking.

Present Day Golfers Are Sissies, Veterans Say

By HENRY McLEMORE

AUGUSTA, Ga.—(UP)—The golfers are softening up, turning sissies. They can't take it any more. A little wind and rain and they're scurrying for the clubhouse, pulling down the shades and begin playing bridge dominoes, mah jong, and parchesi.

The rains came here yesterday, just as play was about to start in the first round of the Masters Invitational tournament, and the officials, fearing the players would melt, ordered a postponement. In the clubhouse, safe from the "fierce" rain that not even your most maidenly aunt would have minded, the boys admitted times had changed. Not so many years ago tournaments went through on schedule, and nothing the elements had to offer was enough to force a halt.

Bobby Jones, comfortably tucked away on a deep sofa, recalled, with a slight shudder, the qualifying rounds of the National

Prepares for Opening Day Ticket Drive

Mansfield Ducat Army Gets Ready for Monday.

Mansfield's army of volunteer ticket dispensers for the opening Ohio State league game at the Fairground, Wednesday, May 3, received their orders today for the march on the city's baseball fans.

Bright and early Monday morning, the ticket troops will open their sales attack on prospects in every nook and corner of the city.

Divided Into Districts.

The city has been divided into districts, with crews of workers involving more than 100 workers conducting the canvass under the supervision of the Citizens' committee of which Herbert R. Slough is chairman.

The committee has set its goal sales goal at 5,000 ducats, and expects to complete the drive by a week from tomorrow.

Tickets will be sold for $1 and will be good for any league game played at the Fairground during the season if not used for the inaugural, Slough said.

Included among the persons firms and clubs participating in the sale will be Gorman-Rupp company, Central Fruit company, Crescent gas store, Tewe Pharmacy, Rattan Works, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, Ohio Public Service, Independent Towel company, American Legion, Liederkranz club, and Humphries Manufacturing company.

Moose lodge, Dominion Electric company, Globe Steel company, Ringside cafe, Belmont mattress company, Eagles lodge, Central drug, Elks lodge, Mansfield Bottling works, Tappan Store company, B-Nal Brith, Smokehouse cigar store, Old-timers Baseball association, Long Bar, East Side Night club, Ohio Brass company, Mansfield Tire & Rubber company and Empire Sheet & Tin Plate company.

Satterlee Bowlers Hang Up 2954 Series

Restaurant Club Wins Two Tilts to Remain Two Games Behind First-Place Printers.

COMPILING a total of 2954 from games of 1048, 965 and 941, the Satterlee Restaurant bowlers annulled scoring laurels in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Opening with a 248, Eugene Funston blasted out a 633 count to lead the Restaurant club to a pair of wins over the Yunker Sports, who came into with a 2872 series.

The two victories enabled the Satterlee bowlers to remain only two games behind the first-place Mansfield Printers, who added a pair of wins at the expense of the Office Cafe, tied with the Restaurant club for second place prior to last night's bowling.

The Burghardt Cafes hung up a 2877 count to take three games from the Shelby Cycles. Christ Herrick of the Burghardt team led the individual scoring with a 639, and Hazelwood of the Cycles added a 607.

The Kochheiser Sports rattled off a 2739 series and a pair of wins over the Ringside Cafe, and the Mansfield Rugs, led by Pete Linster's 636, came through with a 2738 count to take two wins from the Heilmann Grocers. Met's Auto Supplies scored two victories over Ohio Public Service.

'Charley Horse' Slows Rookie

Temporarily halted by a charley horse is Harold (Pete) Reiser, 19-year-old rookie shortstop with the Brooklyn Dodgers in their Lakeland, Fla., training camp. Though the Dodgers paid but $100 for his services the St. Louis, Mo., youngster may be the baseball find of the year. He astounded his teammates recently by getting eight hits in a row, three being homers, and scoring five runs and driving in eight.

Two Mansfield Teams In Fight

Yunker Sports Face Gallon, and Westinghouse Electric Engage Marion In Semi-Finals.

By CHARLES MARTIN

MANSFIELD basketball enthusiasts planning to attend the semi-finals and finals of The News-Journal-Y. M. C. A. Gold Medal tournament on the Y court tonight may witness some nifty scoring exhibitions if last evening's results are an indication of what to expect. Manager Jimmy Bragg's Yunker Sports, pre-tournament favorites, served notice on their rivals by averaging 66 points a piece in winning their quarter-final tussles before a fair-sized gathering.

Tonight's four-game program opens at 7 o'clock with the Sportsmen and the Winter Gulf Oils of Gallon tussling in the initial semi-final melee. The Electricians and Marion clash in the second tilt at 8. This affair will be followed an hour later with the consolation finals, with the championship affair scheduled for 10 o'clock.

Sports Impressive

The Sports, City Class A league champions, chalked up the most impressive victory last night by thumping the Blue Goose Sohioans, 62 to 34. In the other contests, the Snappy Service representatives annexed team scoring honors by rapping apart an outclassed Johns Park club, 78 to 24, and the Westies tallied an easy 58 to 24 decision over the Ashland Bobcats in the finale.

Ray Friday, veteran city league star, playing a forward position for the Electricians, put on an individual backboard bombardment that may enable him to win the single game record. The former Ontario high star flipped in 12 goals and a pair of free throws for 26 points, two more than Al Sticker, sharpshooting Yunker ace, who collected 24 markers in last week's opening games.

Incidentally, Sticker didn't fall far short of Friday's mark as he paced the Sports to their one-sided win. The erstwhile Mansfield high star, whose clever rebound work has been a feature of the Sports' play all season, banged in 23 more tallies to boost his tournament total to 47, one short of the mark which won the tournament championship last year.

While Friday and Sticker were staging a two-man fight for high-point honors, seven other players came in with 14 or more points. Heading the list was Mickey Faren of Marion, who piled up 20 markers.

Wilt After Half

The Sports-Blue Goose melee was the only fairly interesting tilt on the program. For two periods the Sohioans gave the favorites a battle. But the height advantage the Yunker machine held proved too big of an advantage after the intermission.

For a period and a half at the opening of the game, the Oilmen held the upper hand with their expert rebounding playing an important part in throttling the Sports. But when Sticker began connecting it seemed to work as a tonic for Johnny Reese and Freddie Lewis also started parting the strings and it wasn't long before the winners held a comfortable lead.

Led by Kenny Hardin and Bob Bogantz, the Blue Gooses combine in the first half possessed a hard charging attack. Blue Goose fought to an 8-all tie in the initial frame, and then fell behind, 18 to 17 at the rest at the end of three quarters. Hardin and Bogantz tallied 11 points apiece. Reese and Lewis collected 16 and 14 points, respectively, for the Sports.

There was never any doubt about the outcome of the other games. Both winners jumped into the lead in the early minutes and coasted through. Marion displayed a stout defense in the third frame when it whitewashed the Park outfit. Marion led 39-13 at the half. Roy Greene, who won the individual scoring title last year, followed Farran in the scoring column with 16 points.

Encounter Trouble

Pilot George Percy's Westies encountered trouble in locating the basket in the initial period, but had an easy time of it once they did connect. The Electricians moved ahead 16 to 8, in the first chapter, and 23 to 12 at halftime. Howard Poole marked up 14 points to trail Fryder. Ryder, Hagrove and Grover hit five markers apiece to top Ashland.

The three games were run off in record time. Only one timeout was taken by any club. Ashland requesting a two-minute rest period in the third frame. Earl Reichert, who did a capable job of officiating, called a total of 49 fouls, an average of 16 per contest.

Tackles Grandovitch In Armory Tonight

'Sailor' Raines May Prove Too Tough for Russian In Headline Grapple Match.

DEL "SAILOR" RAINES, newest threat from California to invade midwestern heavyweight mat circles, will attempt to halt the long winning streak of Leon Grandovitch, Russian Panther, in the Armory tonight. The ex-gob and the powerful contender from the U. S. S. R. will wrestle for two falls with a 90-minute time limit. Grandovitch is riding the crest of a wave of victories, halting the streaks of two top-flight heavyweights in the past month. In Columbus recently he defeated the Nazi storm-trooper, Friederich Von Schacht. Last week in Mansfield he halted Frank Sexton, the powerful farmer boy from Sedalia.

Confident He'll Win For Boston

Galehouse Believes He Will Get Opportunity Denied Him in Cleveland.

By DILLON GRAHAM

SARASOTA, Fla. — (AP) — Dennis Galehouse has been fiddling around the American league for several years but he's never pitched his way into baseball's Who's Who book. And if a player has enjoyed even average success you'll find his record in this little information pamphlet. You can gather that Galehouse hasn't been a ball of fire.

Failed to Blossom. He was ticketed as a great prospect when he came up to Cleveland from New Orleans in the Southern association several years ago. But for this reason or that he never blossomed into a big league star.

Denny isn't blaming anyone. But he feels the trouble is that he hasn't been given enough opportunities to show his stuff. He needs a lot of work. And with Bob Feller, Mel Harder, Johnny Allen and other good tossers around, Cleveland just didn't use him enough to let him find himself. At least that's Galehouse's story.

This spring he's with the Boston Red Sox. And Boston is a club that needs pitching. So Denny is happy. He figures that Joe Cronin will give him the chance he's been waiting for and that he'll prove himself a winning twirler.

Denny went to Hot Springs a few weeks ago and came to the Sarasota camp in fine condition. He lost more games than he won last year, coping only seven triumphs. He's pretty confident he'll at least double his victories this season.

Galehouse has a trace of Dutch in him. It's just enough to make him keep plodding along until he gets what he wants. He wants a regular starting job with the Red Sox.

The Others—

Galehouse is a big fellow, standing 6 feet 1 and weighing 190 pounds. He's a right-hander. He has a pretty swift fast ball.

Denny is one of the three pitchers Manager Cronin acquired in trades last winter. The others are Elden Auker and Jake Wade. Auker is the chap with the baffling underhand delivery. A right-hander, he won 11 games for Detroit last year. Wade is a southpaw from Detroit, who'll win some games for the Red Sox if he can locate the plate.

Otherwise, Boston's pitching staff is the same — Jim Bagby, Lefty Grove, Emerson Dickman, Fred Ostermuller, Jack Wilson and Joe Heving. Charles Wagner from Minneapolis and Woodrow Rich from Little Rock may stick but both could stand a little more seasoning.

REDS NEED WIN TODAY TO SQUARE DODGER SERIES

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers meet in the final of their four-game spring series today, and the Reds need to win for an even break. The Dodgers beat the Detroit Tigers 6-4 yesterday for their eighth win in 14 starts. The Reds dropped their ninth in 17 starts, 9-2 to the Washington Senators when Paul Derringer weakened in the eighth and the Nats rushed home six runs.

Fred Haney Says Browns Need To Learn Schoolboy Rudiments

By FELIX R. MCKNIGHT

AUSTIN, Tex. — (AP) — Schoolboy fundamentals, unearthed by a gent who apparently doesn't believe all major leaguers are perfect, may bolster hopes of the St. Louis Browns this season. Squat, mellow Fred Haney, a man who could pass for a college professor in his quieter moments, has revived the quaint old customs of sliding, bunting and base running around the Brownie training camp.

Only a favored few are excepted in the routine. Fitchers are not among those excepted in the bruising dives into the sliding pit. As a matter of fact, Manager Haney really started bearing down when he discovered that one of his elbowers, Ed Cole, had never made a slide. Manager Haney's astonishment was mild compared to Pitcher Cole's bruises and aches for a few days.

"Bunts and slides can win a few ball games, you know," mused Haney. "At least we're going to be prepared for the occasions." Ready For Anything. Over in a box, squinting through the sun, Vice President Bill Dewitt of the Browns, who is ready for anything that will take the rust off the turnstiles, nodded vigorously.

The regulars, a gang of ball busters who finished second in club batting last year, took five bunts and then circled the bases — quite a departure from a bunt, three slugs and a jog. Haney, up from Toledo for his first major-league managerial job, is blessed with a fine farm in the San Antonio club of the Texas league, which this season may give him two regular infielders, a couple of swell hurlers and an outfielder. But he is just as old-fashioned about night baseball as he is about fundamentals.

"This night baseball is all right, I suppose, but it is hard on pitchers. It's just not the old type baseball. You can't get the signs all the time out there on the mound and base runners have a harder time."

But, he admitted, he could use a couple of pitchers like Bill Trotter and Jackie Kramer, who won 22 and 20 games respectively for San Antonio in the nocturnal setting last year.

Working Days, Now.

Two of the San Antonio farmhands, however, can cavort and are cavorting in the daylight — and they may break into the Brownie lineup. Johnny Berardino, a California college boy who was a riot at second base for the San Antonio last year and clouted over 300, took advantage of Don Heffner's long layoff because of holdout troubles and may stick right there.

His partner in the Texas league's most murderous double-play combine last season, Sig Gryskas, also a ball buster, has been plugging the shortstop hole since Red Kress developed a desire for more money and failed to discard his old-fashioned ideas — just for the moment — if the Berardino-Gryskas combination keeps clicking.

Tonight to Mark Sixth Bout for Henry in Four Months.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Davey Day crawls through the ropes at Madison Square Garden tonight to fight Henry Armstrong for the welterweight championship of the world. The odds are three to one against Davey but he is going to give it the old college try.

Day has done most of his gladiatorial work in and around Chicago. He is unbeaten in more than two years of fighting, he punches sharply and he has a short right uppercut that could turn out to be quite a weapon against Armstrong when the champion swarms in close. Davey will have height, reach and weight on Henry, and the chief question seems to be whether he can summon up the stamina to stay in there for 15 rounds and take the mauling that Armstrong hands out.

As for Armstrong this will be the 51th defense of his welterweight title in the last four months, and Henry is so confident that he has his trunks packed for a journey to England where he will give Ernie Roderick a shot at the championship.

Armstrong's lightweight title will not be at stake because Day will come in around 138 — three pounds over the lightweight limit.

Feller Again Effective As Indians Triumph, 5-3.

LAKE CHARLES, La. — (AP) — Manager Oscar Vitt of the Cleveland Indians, happy over the effective three innings pitched by Willis Hudlin against the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, said today that the veteran Earl Averill would break into the lineup in the New York Giant series at Baton Rouge. Bob Feller gave up two hits in four innings as the Tribe defeated the A's, 5-3, with Ken Keltner banging out two singles and a triple.

Present Day Golfers Are Sissies, Veterans Say

By HENRY McLEMORE

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (UP) — The golfers are softening up, turning sissies. They can't take it any more. A little wind and rain and they're scurrying for the clubhouse. All down the shades and begin playing bridge, dominoes, mah-jong, and parcheesi.

The rains came here yesterday, just as play was about to start in the first round of the Masters' Invitational tournament, and the officials, fearing the players would melt, ordered a postponement. In the clubhouse, safe from the "fierce" rain that not even your most maidenly aunt would have minded, the boys admitted times had changed. Not so many years ago tournaments went through on schedule, and nothing the elements had to offer was enough to force a halt.

Bobby Jones, comfortably tucked away on a deep sofa, recalled, with a slight shudder, the qualifying rounds of the National Houston, Tex., Bowler Loses 300 Game in Singles.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Jovial Henry Charles Fischer, a big man from the South, held a unique American bowling congress record today. He put all 275 pounds into his tournament chore yesterday and came up with a 299 count in the singles.

This was the first 299 rolled in the 32 years of A.B.C. history. Records show that some 2,000,000 games have been rolled in A.B.C. competition. The congress odds against a perfect 300 count are 333,000 to 1.

The Houston, Tex., produce man's other singles games were 228 and 165 for a total of 692, which lodged him in a tie for sixth place.

Ellis Turnham, another Houston bowler, took second place in all events division with 1,916. Detroit's Coca-Cola Bottling company team moved down the Maples for a 2,294 total, good for second place. The game counts were 983, 1,029 and 980.

St. Paul, Minn., was given the edge over Detroit as A. B. C. bigwigs met today today to determine the host city for the 1940 tournament.
